Welch Says Schine and Secretary Cut Out of Group

Washington, April 27 (AP)—The army hurled a charge of using a "doctored" photograph at the McCarthy Camp today, and Roy Cohn, counsel to Sen. McCarthy, acknowledged he had provided it. Cohn denied knowing the picture had been altered.

The picture in question showed Secretary of the Army Robert T. Stevens with Pvt. G. David Schine, drafted former consultant to McCarthy's investigations subcommittee.

It was introduced in evidence yesterday during questioning of Stevens about his relations with Schine.

Cohn Is Called

Stevens was sent from the witness chair and Cohn called to it today after army counsel Joseph N. Welch charged it was a "shamefully" altered photograph, cut to give the impression that Stevens and Schine were photographed alone, when in truth it was a group picture.

Ray H. Jenkins, special subcommittee counsel, said Cohn had provided the picture and called Cohn

Workmen Are Busy Remodeling Home

Flatbush Avenue Structure Has Been Stripped of Wall Coverings

Workmen are swarming over the former City Home on Flatbush avenue converting it into a 100-bed hospital for the chronically ill in Ulster county.

The interior of the building has been stripped of its wall covering preparatory to alteration into wards and other rooms as designed by Harry Halverson, architect. An elevator shaft is being constructed in the rear of the building.

Completion of the extensive renovation project is expected sometime in November.

Conversion of the old City Home, unused since the city and county welfare departments merged, was authorized by the Ulster County Board of Supervisors.

General contractor is the firm of Henry Swart and Son. Other contractors include John D. Krusher, Sr., electrical work; Leninger and Cwill, plumbing and heating and ventilating; Nicholson Sprinkler Corp., sprinkler system, and Otis Elevator Co., elevator.

Vaccine Is Given To School Children By Clinic Team

Twenty-Four at W. Hurley Are First to Receive Serum in Tests in County

The polio vaccine trials in Ulster county began this morning shortly after 9 o'clock when 24 youngsters in the first, second and third grades at the West Hurley school reported to the first clinic set up by health authorities.

All of the youngsters who had written permission of their parents reported as scheduled, and the clinic proceeded as scheduled, according to Miss Esther Schisa, director of public health nursing for the county health department, who attended as an observer.

Hurley Also Is Spot

The clinic team, after completing the work at West Hurley, proceeded to the Hurley school to administer the vaccine trials there. Also this morning, other teams of physicians and nurses staffed a clinic at the Rosendale public school and St. Peter's School in that village, and one at Malden to which children from the small schools in Ulster county north of Saugerties were transported.

As a part of the nation-wide trials of the vaccine that parents and physicians hope will prove the answer to the polio problem, the local clinics administer the vaccine to one-half the participating children, an an innocuous substance to the other half. No one, not even the physician in charge, knows which children get the vaccine, but careful records will be kept at a central point for the nation and developments will be followed closely.

Trials Are Endorsed

The trials have been endorsed by all medical groups, and authorities say they are convinced the vaccine is perfectly safe. The purpose of the trials is to find out how effective it is.

There will be no clinics in Ulster county this afternoon, but a full day of clinics is scheduled for tomorrow, when Kingston city children will receive the vaccine.

On that morning (Wednesday) clinics will be held at Public Schools 2, 3 and 4. Children from the Immanual Lutheran School

Concrete Work Progresses South of New Paltz on Thruway

This is concrete-pouring weather along the N. Y. State Thruway and state engineers said today that John Arborio, Inc., of Poughkeepsie, contractor for sections between Ohioville and Newburgh is making progress from the New Paltz area southward while work is progressing in the Kingston area toward finishing the Route 28 overpass.

Other work scheduled for the summer aside from completion of the interchange system will be construction of the toll booth system and the building of Class A restaurants along the expressway in the Ruby and Whiteport areas.

Class B type restaurants will be built at Catskill, Modena and Plattekill.

Class A Described

Class A is the second largest type restaurant facility along the route. It includes dining room, snack bar,, gift shop and rest rooms. The Class B type is a lunch room, snack bar and rest rooms. The largest type along the route is known as Super-A.

A short strip of the Sawkill-Kingston section of the expressway north of the point where the route will pass under Route 28 is to be finished. It will be connected to the detour around the Route 28 overpass, and the present connecting system between the two roads will be abandoned pending completion of the overpass.

Awaits Span Work

The pouring of concrete on the section between Kingston and Whiteport is expected to start as soon as the bridge work along the strip is completed. This includes bridges over the Esopus creek, two railroads, and Hurley avenue. The Lucas turnpike will go over the thruway.

A. R. Erskine, thruway engineer, stationed at Poughkeepsie, said that Arborio has two to three miles of road ready for pouring between Ohioville and the railroad crossing of the N. Y., New Haven and Hartford railroad, and that the route will soon be ready for pouring between the crossing and Newburgh. He was unable to say when the bridges in this area would be finished so that paving work could start between here and Whiteport.

A spokesman said today that concrete was being poured on bridge decks today in the area of the Route 28 interchange, but he expected it would be a week or 10 days before concrete would be poured on the strip leading up to the Route 28 bridge. Preliminary work has been under way for laying pavement on the Route 28 overpass. This work is also expected to start soon.

To Have Snack Bars

Albany, April 26 (AP) — Three movable snack bars will tide over hungry motorists on the cross-state Thruway until 26 permanent restaurants are ready for business.

The Thruway Authority said today two of the temporary dining spots would go into service June 24, when a 120-mile stretch of the express route will be opened to the first toll traffic.

Construction contracts are to be awarded by July 1, but the Thruway does not expect the buildings to be completed until the fall of 1955.

So it is having three "knock-down" structures built at a cost of $40,000 each. Later the portable buildings will be kept available for use wherever the need for another lunch counter arises.

The authority expects three concessionaires at the permanent restaurants to serve at least 17,500,000 meals a year and ring up sales of 21 million dollars annually.

Under the five-year contracts, the concession-holders must pay the authority a minimum fee totalling $650,000 annually. That will be the authority's return on its investment of 18 million dollars in the buildings.

The restaurants, distributed along both sides of the highway, will run from 1½-million-dollar "super A" restaurants with seats for 340 diners to $485,000 "C"

Monsoon Is On in North Indochina

Artillery Duels Continue at Dien Bien Phu; Little Change Occurs, French Say

Hanoi, Indochina, April 27 (AP)—The long-awaited big season monsoon rains hit Dien Bien Phu and all of north Indochina today as French and Vietminh artillery kept up their violent duels across the battered ramparts of the besieged fortress.

In its usual brief morning communique, the French high command described the situation at Dien Bien Phu as "unchanged" and said there had been no important land fighting in the past 24 hours.

Since the rebel artillery attack stepped up Sunday, the French have believed a third all-out Vietminh infantry assault on the shrunken fortress defenses might come at any time.

Many observers expect the monsoons to hamper or halt Vietminh operations and seriously slow transport of the rebels' war supplies from Red China. The French hope this will force their enemy to taper off his efforts to overrun Dien Bien Phu's battered and outnumbered defenders.

Counterattack Retarded

But the advent of the big rains, accompanied by violent lightning and thunderstorms, also retarded the French counterattack. Little seas of mud oozed from the one-time dust bowl's red earth, slowing the French tanks and armored vehicles.

The heavy clouds and sheets of rain forced the French war planes to taper off their heavy attacks on the rebel legions tightly circling the northwest bastion and the lines of trucks and coolies bringing them food and munitions. Only yesterday U. S.-supplied Corsair fighter bombers had swelled the French-piloted air force for the first time for a record day of raids on the Vietminh.

Despite the weather, French transport planes kept up their drops of men, war material and food into the beleaguered fortress.

In the fortress' northwest sector, believed to be the avenue the rebels will use for their next drive on the French headquarters, the defenders and the Vietminh blasted at each other with mortars, heavy machineguns and automatic arms. There the opposing trenches were only 300 feet apart.

Karachi, Pakistan, April 27 (AP) — Pakistan's Parliament overwhelmingly rejected a pro-Communist move today to protest against the use of Karachi Airport by U. S. planes carrying French paratroops to Indochina.

Anzacs Show Strong Interest In Action to Save Indochina

Washington, April 27 (AP)—Australia and New Zealand were reported today to have expressed strong interest in joining the United States in possible "united action" to save Indochina and southeast Asia from communism.

Both governments were understood to have stopped short of a firm "yes" only because of Britain's refusal to adopt a like course until after the current Geneva Conference with Red China and Russia.

But Australian and New Zealand interest in the plan put forth by Secretary of State Dulles is reported strong enough that American officials are hoping the two will persuade Britain to join up rather than split the British Commonwealth.

Dulles was said to be pressing his united action plan at Geneva even though informed American officials regard the fall of the Indochina stronghold of Dien Bien Phu as only a matter of time.

The loss of Dien Bien Phu to the Red-led Vietminh, they said, would make all the more imperative united action to rescue Indochina.

Just last night, 12 key members of the Senate and House, both Democrats and Republicans, were given a State Department fill-in on Indochina and other world trouble points. The briefing by acting Secretary Walter Bedell Smith was based on messages sent by Dulles from Paris and Geneva.

Coming away from the briefing, several of the lawmakers commented that "things look dark all over."

One of them, Sen. H. Alexander Smith (R-NJ), said in an interview the "next few days will be of vital importance to the west." Smith, chairman of a Senate Foreign Relations subcommittee on the Far East, said the coming day or two "should tell the story at Dien Bien Phu."

Britain's willingness to join Australia, New Zealand and other nations in a united front against Red encroachment in southeast Asia could open the way for free world countries to reinforce French union forces with military units of their own.

Dulles advocated the "united action" approach in a speech March 29. Later he issued specific invitations to nine countries with interests in southeast Asia.

Thailand accepted. The Philippines indicated it would join. France and the three Indochina states—Laos, Cambodia, and Viet Nam—have informally hinted at acceptance.

Britain's membership, however,

Community Chest Voted And Directors Chosen

Rita Picks Up Daughters

Six Agencies Are Taken as Charter Members for Program

The Kingston Area Community Chest was officially organized Monday night when the more than 50 persons attending a meeting at the Governor Clinton Hotel voted unanimously to accept proposed by-laws and elected seven directors-at-large.

Six agencies that had previously indicated willingness to become agency members of the Chest if it organized were accepted as original members. They are the Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, YMCA, YWCA, Jewish Community Center, and Salvation Army.

Directors-at-Large

Directors-at-large elected by ballot were L. V. Bogert, Mrs. Vincent Connelly, Arthur B. Ewig, N. Jansen Fowler, Marvin Millens, John Shults and Warren F. Smith.

The directors-at-large plus one director elected by each of the member agencies will constitute the Community Chest's board of directors. Each member agency also designated an alternate member who may attend board meetings but has no vote except in the absence of the elected delegate.

Delegates and alternates, in that order, for each of the original member agencies are: Harry Rigby, Jr., and George Matthews for the Boy Scouts; Frank O'Neill and Mrs. Donovan Buhering for the Girl Scouts; Elmer Rylance and G. Herbert DeKay for the YMCA; Mrs. John Glennon and Mrs. W. Dale Swartzmiller for the YWCA; Abraham Streifer and Joseph Honig for the Jewish Community Center and John Willkie and Edwin Ford for the Salvation Army.

By-Laws Presented

The proposed by-laws were presented to the group by N. Jansen Fowler, chairman of the committee on by-laws, and were adopted without a dissenting vote. It was pointed out that adoption of the by-laws would constitute the official organization of the Kingston Area Community Chest.

L. V. Bogert, temporary chairman of the committee of service club and Junior Chamber of Commerce representatives that took the preliminary steps in organizing the Chest, presided at the meeting. A total of 58 voting

Judge Lauds Rita As 'Loving Mother' Of Her Two Girls

Smyth Has Private Session in White Plains as Ex-Husbands Give Support

New York, April 27 (AP)—Rita Hayworth, aided by two ex-husbands in winning back custody of her two little girls, has settled down in a New York hotel suite with the children and her current husband.

The glamorous movie star is "a loving and devoted mother," declared the judge in announcing disposition of charges that the children had been neglected. He was quoting one former husband, actor Orson Welles.

The neglect case was worked out in a three-hour private conference yesterday with Children's Judge George W. Smyth in suburban White Plains. Present were representatives of the Westchester County Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, which filed the complaint on which the case was based.

Charges Are Dismissed

Smyth, who had placed the children in protective custody of the court last Friday but left them in the care of their governess, returned them to their mother. The charges of neglect were dismissed but the court agreement required Miss Hayworth to concede there had been at least a technical basis for the charge.

The girls, Yasmin, 4, and Rebecca, 9, had been left in the care of the governess, Mrs. Dorothy Chambers, while Rita went to Florida for a two-week vacation with her current husband, crooner Dick Haymes.

The neglect petition, never made public, was filed after two neighbors complained that the children were not properly supervised as they played outside Mrs. Chambers' White Plains home.

Slums Are Hit As Scandal in U. S. Housing

Washington, April 27 (AP) — Housing Administrator Albert M. Cole declared today the "No. 1 housing scandal" is the nation's slums. He called on the United States Chamber of Commerce to support a public housing program to shelter families displaced by slum clearance.

"You can't sweep American families under the rugs," Cole told the businessmen. "You have to face the problem they face of finding a decent place to live."

The housing chief, referring only briefly to the federal housing administration scandals now under investigation by himself and two congressional committees, promised that defects in the housing program "will be ferreted out and put right."

Denounces Slickers

He denounced the operations of "slick, shell-game artists" who have victimized householders through FHA repair and improvement loans, as well as the unearned windfall profits gained by apartment house promoters through excessive loans on rental housing.

"Even though technically it may be that many of these windfalls were legal, in my opinion they were wrong," Cole said at a chamber luncheon meeting.

"They were bad for government and bad for business. Business does not need that sort of incentive to do its job, and I don't think that business expects it."

Shocking as these irregularities are, he said, they involve only a small fraction of FHA's operations and staff. The FHA programs are "entirely sound" and "vitally necessary to keep our housing economy moving ahead," he said.

'Disgraceful Mess'

A "far worse scandal," Cole told the businessmen, is the "stinking, disgraceful mess exist-

140-Unit Motel Is Planned At Rt. 28 Thruway 'Change

A large motel adjacent to the New York State Thruway interchange at the Onteora Trail, with an ultimate goal of 140 units complete with central house, swimming pool, recreational facilities and restaurant is now under consideration, it was revealed yesterday by Lawrence J. MacAvery, local real estate dealer.

Plans for the motel have been complete for some time and the project has been under serious consideration for several months. The exact location was not revealed, other than it would be close to the Onteora Trail leading to the Catskill mountains and accessible to the Thruway.

In keeping with the tradition of the area the plans call for use of local stone and the architectural lines will be Dutch Colonial, in keeping with the numerous old Dutch homes of this area.

The project would be sponsored by an out of town corporation, it is understood.

Reds Start Discussions With France

U. S. Reported Against Unspecified Promises and Holds No Finality in Present Fight

Geneva, April 27 (AP)—Russia and France opened discussions on Indochina today amid reports the solidarity of the western Big Three at the Geneva conference over cease fire terms in the war-torn Asian country was weakening.

The British were reported ready to back the French in seeking an immediate cease fire, to be followed by negotiations with the Communist-led Vietminh. The United States is understood to oppose any cease fire not accompanied by certain unspecified guarantees.

Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov drove in a bulletproof limousine to the lakeside villa of France's Georges Bidault for talks on which nations will be invited here for discussions on Indochina. They had a 40-minute discussion. Then Molotov drove back to his villa. There was no clue at once on the results of the get-together.

Only Loss of Battle

U. S. military thinking generally is reported to be that the fall of Dien Bien Phu, while it would be serious, would be nothing more than the loss of a battle and not a fatal blow to France's position in Indochina.

Any military intervention in Indochina, Washington is said to believe, should come as the result of consultation among the interested powers.

In London, French Ambassador Rene Massigli conferred urgently with Prime Minister Churchill today on the Indochina crisis and on a reported British-American decision ruling out immediate big-scale intervention.

Diplomatic informants there said the envoy gave the British leader an up-to-the-minute picture of the battle of Dien Bien Phu and the consequences if it fell.

Help Is Pondered

The informants reported that American, British and French military leaders are pondering the scale and kind of help that may have to be thrown in if circumstances force the allies to intervene.

That was a main talking point yesterday when Adm. Arthur Radford, chairman of the U. S. joint chiefs of staff, flew unexpectedly into London to see Churchill and British high command. Radford flew back to Washington early today.

The reported British-American decision to stay out of the Indochina war for the time being, according to the informants, does not exclude a possible demonstration of allied air and sea power around the battle zones.

Britain Has No Ties

London, April 27 (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill announced today Britain was not prepared to undertake any military action in Indochina while the Geneva Asian conference was still in session.

Churchill told the House of Commons amid cheers:

"We have not entered into any new military or political commitments.

"Her Majesty's government are not prepared to give any undertakings about United Kingdom military action in Indochina in advance of the results at Geneva."

Churchill was replying to a question by Opposition Leader Clement Attlee on the Paris meeting of the western Big Three foreign ministers which preceded the current 19-nation Geneva parley.

France is reported to have asked for military assistance in Indochina, but both the United States and Britain are understood to have turned down immediate big scale military intervention.

Churchill spoke quietly and

Ulster Is Leader in Agency Cut

New York, April 27 (Special)—More progress has been made in the last decade in Ulster county toward streamlining and reducing the number of local governmental agencies there than has been observed in most counties in the States.

This reduction is the number of controlling bodies, at the county, city or town level, is of vital importance to John Q. Citizen—as much so as the "big show" in Washington. These are the governing agencies that intimately affect his daily life in such matters as water supply, hospitals, roads and police.

Decline to 134

According to a special study by the Census Bureau, the 10-year period up to January, 1953, has seen a decline in the number of governmental units in Ulster County from 207 to 134.

This was a greater reduction, 35 per cent, than was achieved generally throughout the nation which was 25 per cent.

In Ulster county at the present time there are in addition to the county government itself, those of 6 municipalities, 20 townships, 72 school districts and 35 special districts.

Ten years previously there were the county government, 6 municipalities, 20 townships, 152 school districts and 35 special districts.

Schools Big Change

The big change, generally, was through the consolidation or elimination of many school districts,

Dulles was said to be pressing his united action plan at Geneva even though informed American officials regard the fall of the Indochina stronghold of Dien Bien Phu as only a matter of time.

The loss of Dien Bien Phu to the Red-led Vietminh, they said, would make all the more imperative united action to rescue Indochina.

Just last night, 12 key members of the Senate and House, both Democrats and Republicans, were given a State Department fill-in on Indochina and other world trouble points. The briefing by acting Secretary Walter Bedell Smith was based on messages sent by Dulles from Paris and Geneva.

Coming away from the briefing, several of the lawmakers commented that "things look dark all over."

One of them, Sen. H. Alexander Smith (R-NJ), said in an interview the "next few days will be of vital importance to the west." Smith, chairman of a Senate Foreign Relations subcommittee on the Far East, said the coming day or two "should tell the story at Dien Bien Phu."

Britain's willingness to join Australia, New Zealand and other nations in a united front against Red encroachment in southeast Asia could open the way for free world countries to reinforce French union forces with military units of their own.

Dulles advocated the "united action" approach in a speech March 29. Later he issued specific invitations to nine countries with interests in southeast Asia.

Thailand accepted. The Philippines indicated it would join. France and the three Indochina states—Laos, Cambodia, and Viet Nam—have informally hinted at acceptance.

Britain's membership, however,

Community Chest Voted And Directors Chosen

Six Agencies Are Taken as Charter Members for Program

The Kingston Area Community Chest was officially organized Monday night when the more than 50 persons attending a meeting at the Governor Clinton Hotel voted unanimously to accept proposed by-laws and elected seven directors-at-large.

Six agencies that had previously indicated willingness to become agency members of the Chest if it organized were accepted as original members. They are the Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, YMCA, YWCA, Jewish Community Center, and Salvation Army.

Directors-at-Large

Directors-at-large elected by ballot were L. V. Bogert, Mrs. Vincent Connelly, Arthur B. Ewig, N. Jansen Fowler, Marvin Millens, John Shults and Warren F. Smith.

The directors-at-large plus one director elected by each of the member agencies will constitute the Community Chest's board of directors. Each member agency also designated an alternate member who may attend board meetings but has no vote except in the absence of the elected delegate.

Delegates and alternates, in that order, for each of the original member agencies are: Harry Rigby, Jr., and George Matthews for the Boy Scouts; Frank O'Neill and Mrs. Donovan Buhering for the Girl Scouts; Elmer Rylance and G. Herbert DeKay for the YMCA; Mrs. John Glennon and Mrs. W. Dale Swartzmiller for the YWCA; Abraham Streifer and Joseph Honig for the Jewish Community Center and John Willkie and Edwin Ford for the Salvation Army.

By-Laws Presented

The proposed by-laws were presented to the group by N. Jansen Fowler, chairman of the committee on by-laws, and were adopted without a dissenting vote. It was pointed out that adoption of the by-laws would constitute the official organization of the Kingston Area Community Chest.

L. V. Bogert, temporary chairman of the committee of service club and Junior Chamber of Commerce representatives that took the preliminary steps in organizing the Chest, presided at the meeting. A total of 58 voting

Judge Lauds Rita As 'Loving Mother' Of Her Two Girls

Smyth Has Private Session in White Plains as Ex-Husbands Give Support

New York, April 27 (AP)—Rita Hayworth, aided by two ex-husbands in winning back custody of her two little girls, has settled down in a New York hotel suite with the children and her current husband.

The glamorous movie star is "a loving and devoted mother," declared the judge in announcing disposition of charges that the children had been neglected. He was quoting one former husband, actor Orson Welles.

The neglect case was worked out in a three-hour private conference yesterday with Children's Judge George W. Smyth in suburban White Plains. Present were representatives of the Westchester County Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, which filed the complaint on which the case was based.

Charges Are Dismissed

Smyth, who had placed the children in protective custody of the court last Friday but left them in the care of their governess, returned them to their mother. The charges of neglect were dismissed but the court agreement required Miss Hayworth to concede there had been at least a technical basis for the charge.

The girls, Yasmin, 4, and Rebecca, 9, had been left in the care of the governess, Mrs. Dorothy Chambers, while Rita went to Florida for a two-week vacation with her current husband, crooner Dick Haymes.

The neglect petition, never made public, was filed after two neighbors complained that the children were not properly supervised as they played outside Mrs. Chambers' White Plains home.

Slums Are Hit As Scandal in U. S. Housing

Washington, April 27 (AP) — Housing Administrator Albert M. Cole declared today the "No. 1 housing scandal" is the nation's slums. He called on the United States Chamber of Commerce to support a public housing program to shelter families displaced by slum clearance.

"You can't sweep American families under the rugs," Cole told the businessmen. "You have to face the problem they face of finding a decent place to live."

The housing chief, referring only briefly to the federal housing administration scandals now under investigation by himself and two congressional committees, promised that defects in the housing program "will be ferreted out and put right."

Denounces Slickers

He denounced the operations of "slick, shell-game artists" who have victimized householders through FHA repair and improvement loans, as well as the unearned windfall profits gained by apartment house promoters through excessive loans on rental housing.

"Even though technically it may be that many of these windfalls were legal, in my opinion they were wrong," Cole said at a chamber luncheon meeting.

"They were bad for government and bad for business. Business does not need that sort of incentive to do its job, and I don't think that business expects it."

Shocking as these irregularities are, he said, they involve only a small fraction of FHA's operations and staff. The FHA programs are "entirely sound" and "vitally necessary to keep our housing economy moving ahead," he said.

'Disgraceful Mess'

140-Unit Motel Is Planned At Rt. 28 Thruway 'Change

A large motel adjacent to the New York State Thruway interchange at the Onteora Trail, with an ultimate goal of 140 units complete with central house, swimming pool, recreational facilities and restaurant is now under consideration, it was revealed yesterday by Lawrence J. MacAvery, local real estate dealer.

Plans for the motel have been complete for some time and the project has been under serious consideration for several months. The exact location was not revealed, other than it would be close to the Onteora Trail leading to the Catskill mountains and accessible to the Thruway.

In keeping with the tradition of the area the plans call for use of local stone and the architectural lines will be Dutch Colonial, in keeping with the numerous old Dutch homes of this area.

The project would be sponsored by an out of town corporation, it is understood.

Reds Start Discussions With France

U. S. Reported Against Unspecified Promises and Holds No Finality in Present Fight

Geneva, April 27 (AP)—Russia and France opened discussions on Indochina today amid reports the solidarity of the western Big Three at the Geneva conference over cease fire terms in the war-torn Asian country was weakening.

The British were reported ready to back the French in seeking an immediate cease fire, to be followed by negotiations with the Communist-led Vietminh. The United States is understood to oppose any cease fire not accompanied by certain unspecified guarantees.

Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov drove in a bulletproof limousine to the lakeside villa of France's Georges Bidault for talks on which nations will be invited here for discussions on Indochina. They had a 40-minute discussion. Then Molotov drove back to his villa. There was no clue at once on the results of the get-together.

Only Loss of Battle

U. S. military thinking generally is reported to be that the fall of Dien Bien Phu, while it would be serious, would be nothing more than the loss of a battle and not a fatal blow to France's position in Indochina.

Any military intervention in Indochina, Washington is said to believe, should come as the result of consultation among the interested powers.

In London, French Ambassador Rene Massigli conferred urgently with Prime Minister Churchill today on the Indochina crisis and on a reported British-American decision ruling out immediate big-scale intervention.

Diplomatic informants there said the envoy gave the British leader an up-to-the-minute picture of the battle of Dien Bien Phu and the consequences if it fell.

Help Is Pondered

The informants reported that American, British and French military leaders are pondering the scale and kind of help that may have to be thrown in if circumstances force the allies to intervene.

That was a main talking point yesterday when Adm. Arthur Radford, chairman of the U. S. joint chiefs of staff, flew unexpectedly into London to see Churchill and British high command. Radford flew back to Washington early today.

The reported British-American decision to stay out of the Indochina war for the time being, according to the informants, does not exclude a possible demonstration of allied air and sea power around the battle zones.

Britain Has No Ties

London, April 27 (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill announced today Britain was not prepared to undertake any military action in Indochina while the Geneva Asian conference was still in session.

Churchill told the House of Commons amid cheers:

"We have not entered into any new military or political commitments.

"Her Majesty's government are not prepared to give any undertakings about United Kingdom military action in Indochina in advance of the results at Geneva."

Churchill was replying to a question by Opposition Leader Clement Attlee on the Paris meeting of the western Big Three foreign ministers which preceded the current 19-nation Geneva parley.

France is reported to have asked for military assistance in Indochina, but both the United States and Britain are understood to have turned down immediate big scale military intervention.

Churchill spoke quietly and

Ulster Is Leader in Agency Cut

New York, April 27 (Special)—More progress has been made in the last decade in Ulster county toward streamlining and reducing the number of local governmental agencies there than has been observed in most counties in the States.

This reduction is the number of controlling bodies, at the county, city or town level, is of vital importance to John Q. Citizen—as much so as the "big show" in Washington. These are the governing agencies that intimately affect his daily life in such matters as water supply, hospitals, roads and police.

Decline to 134

According to a special study by the Census Bureau, the 10-year period up to January, 1953, has seen a decline in the number of governmental units in Ulster County from 207 to 134.

This was a greater reduction, 35 per cent, than was achieved generally throughout the nation which was 25 per cent.

In Ulster county at the present time there are in addition to the county government itself, those of 6 municipalities, 20 townships, 72 school districts and 35 special districts.

Ten years previously there were the county government, 6 municipalities, 20 townships, 152 school districts and 35 special districts.

Schools Big Change

The big change, generally, was through the consolidation or elimination of many school districts,

Evacuation Test Is Success in Defense

Spokane, Wash., April 27 (AP)—Interest mushroomed in civilian defense here today in the wake of a mock atom bomb "Operation Walkout," the most elaborate exercise of its kind ever tried in this country.

Officials said the test, the nation's first attempt at mass evacuation of a metropolitan area, went off far better than expected.

The evacuation of thousands of people from the main business district—estimations as to the number of evacuees ran to 19,000—went on before scores of observers from all parts of the country and a local television audience.

"It exceeded our fondest expectations," said John Lenhart, civil defense director in this city of 175,000.

The people started to move out of a 10 by 15 block business area with the sound of a "red alert siren" that blared for three minutes.

Despite wind and rain the crowd moved quietly and orderly to the edge of a "fireball perimeter" where busses in a real attack would take them far from the vicinity.

Spokane, which figures it is six hours from Russian bombers, has had only moderate success in civil defense before it got the idea for "Operation Walkout" three months ago.

Three Convicted For Sheltering Red

San Francisco, April 27 (AP)—A Federal Court jury last night convicted three men and a woman of sheltering a fugitive Communist leader.

The four, Mrs. Shirley Kremen, 22; Samuel I. Coleman, 43; Carl Ross, 41, and Sidney Steinberg, 39, heard the verdict with no show of emotion.

All were found guilty on two counts of harboring Robert Thompson, a Communist party chieftain after he disappeared in 1951 following his conviction in New York of conspiring to advocate overthrow of the U. S. government. Arrested by the FBI in a Sierra hideout last August with the four convicted yesterday, Thompson is serving a term in Atlanta federal prison.

Mrs. Kremen, Coleman and Ross also were found guilty of harboring Steinberg, himself a fugitive from a New York indictment charging conspiracy to advocate overthrow of the government.

The three face maximum prison sentences of 11 years and fines of $15,000 each. Steinberg faces a maximum sentence of 10 years and a maximum fine of $15,000.

Judge Louis E. Goodman cancelled bail for all four and ordered them to jail. He will hear motions for a new trial and pass sentence Monday.

Civilian Pilot Is First U. S. Casualty

Honk Kong, April 27 (AP)—An American civilian pilot flying supplies to besieged French Union forces at Dien Bien Phu is the first U. S. casualty of the bloody battle for Indochina fortress, officials of Civil Air Transport said here today.

The flier is Paul Robert Holden of Greenleaf, Kan., who suffered severe wounds in his right side and right arm when Communist anti-aircraft fire hit his plane over Dien Bien Phu.

Holden is the third listed American casualty of the eight-year-old Indochina War. Two American women, employes of the U. S. Consulate at Saigon, were slain March 8, 1948 by a Vietminh ambush outside Saigon. There were identified as Mrs. Jeanne R. Skewes and Lydia Ruth James.

CAT officials said Holden's condition is serious but not critical.

Co-pilot Wallace A. Buford of Kansas City, Kas., landed the damaged plane safely in French territory, the airline said.

CAT spokesman A. T. Cox said Holden was the airline's chief pilot. He flew for the U. S. Air Force in World War 2 and after the war flew in China until 1947.

Civil Air Transport, headed by retired U. S. Gen. Claire L. Chennault, has its headquarters at Taipeh, Formosa. It has been flying supplies in Indochina for several weeks under contract with the French.

Plane Pilot Is Identified In Central Valley Crash

Central Valley, April 27 (AP)—The pilot of a small plane that crashed and burned near here has been identified by state police as Franklin L. Burgess, 33, of Jackson Heights, Queens, New York city.

In dropping to the ground, the single engine plane cut through high tension power lines near Route 6, about half a mile from here.

Police first were unable to identify the pilot after the crash and reported he was burned beyond recognition.

The plane was owned by Avien Knickerbocker Inc., of Woodside, Queens, a firm in which Burgess was a director, police said. A spokesman for the company told police the plane had taken off from LaGuardia Field and Burgess had said he intended to go to Cape Cod.

Brickhandlers Are Back at Jobs Today

A 25-day old walkout of brickhandlers at the East Kingston Brick Co., Inc., ended today when members of the Brickhandlers' Union Local 1467, AFL, returned to their jobs following an agreement reached between management and union representatives, it was reported at the brickyard.

Approximately 60 members of the union walked off their jobs on April 2 in a dispute over what union spokesmen termed an attempt by a "boss" to make midcontract changes in the employes' set working procedure. The strike did not affect other area brickyards.

Details of the agreement could not be obtained locally. A spokesman said the terms were worked out by the company management from Hoboken and the union president.

Boy Fell From Gate At Local Cemetery, Detective Reports

David Manello, 11, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Manello, of 149 Spring street, who returned to his home Sunday night dazed and injured, was hurt in a fall from a gate at Montrepose Cemetery, Detective Clarence Brophy reported today.

The boy apparently narrowly escaped being crushed under an iron ornamental piece on the gate which tipped loose as he grabbed it while climbing, the detective said.

Mrs. Manello said her son's condition was reported as "fair" at the Benedictine Hospital. He suffered a concussion, back injuries, and appeared to have an injury to his brain, which may require a specialist, his mother said. It had not been determined whether he suffered a skull fracture, she reported.

The iron piece appeared to be insecure at the top of the gate and its moorings were apparently rusted, Mrs. Manello said. It weighed an estimated 150 pounds Detective Brophy said, and Mrs. Manello noted that it dug into the ground as it fell.

The boy remembered having fallen after he recovered from his dazed condition, Mrs. Manello said. He was taken home Sunday night by a man, who saw him running from the cemetery and screaming as he ran.

Will Hold Exam

The Municipal Civil Service Commission recently announced that an examination will be held June 19 for the position of city marshal. The office is now held by John R. Mayone, who was appointed to fill the position pending an examination, after the death of Benson V. Miller. Mayone, to date, is the only applicant for the examination.

Estimate Theft at $15

Total amount of loss attributed to two brothers, aged six and seven, who allegedly broke into the Empire Market in New Paltz on Sunday night and helped themselves to some of the stock has been estimated by Kenneth Swanson, store manager, at $15, according to Arthur H. Brown, county investigator. Although much of the cookies, candy, cigarettes and other items reportedly taken by the youngsters has been recovered, it was of no value to the store as the packages had been broken open, it was reported.

Evacuation Test Is Success in Defense

Spokane, Wash., April 27 (AP)—Interest mushroomed in civilian defense here today in the wake of a mock atom bomb "Operation Walkout," the most elaborate exercise of its kind ever tried in this country.

Officials said the test, the nation's first attempt at mass evacuation of a metropolitan area, went off far better than expected.

The evacuation of thousands of people from the main business district—estimations as to the number of evacuees ran to 19,000—went on before scores of observers from all parts of the country and a local television audience.

"It exceeded our fondest expectations," said John Lenhart, civil defense director in this city of 175,000.

The people started to move out of a 10 by 15 block business area with the sound of a "red alert siren" that blared for three minutes.

Despite wind and rain the crowd moved quietly and orderly to the edge of a "fireball perimeter" where busses in a real attack would take them far from the vicinity.

Spokane, which figures it is six hours from Russian bombers, has had only moderate success in civil defense before it got the idea for "Operation Walkout" three months ago.

Washington, April 27 (AP)—The Senate defeated today an effort to extend rigid government farm price supports on major crops for a year through 1955.

New York, April 27 (AP)—An attorney for Prince Aly Khan, former husband of actress Rita Hayworth, indicated today the prince is prepared to settle a fund of about $1,400,000 on their daughter, Yasmin, 4.

Newsmen told Atty. Charles Torem they had heard such a report, and he replied that it was "fairly close" to the arrangements being worked out.

Torem made the comment after conferring for more than two hours with Bartley Crum, Rita's attorney. Crum told newsmen he was "hopeful that an agreement will be reached today" on custody and financial arrangements.

Three Convicted For Sheltering Red

San Francisco, April 27 (AP)—A Federal Court jury last night convicted three men and a woman of sheltering a fugitive Communist leader.

The four, Mrs. Shirley Kremen, 22; Samuel I. Coleman, 43; Carl Ross, 41, and Sidney Steinberg, 39, heard the verdict with no show of emotion.

All were found guilty on two counts of harboring Robert Thompson, a Communist party chieftain after he disappeared in 1951 following his conviction in New York of conspiring to advocate overthrow of the U. S. government. Arrested by the FBI in a Sierra hideout last August with the four convicted yesterday, Thompson is serving a term in Atlanta federal prison.

Mrs. Kremen, Coleman and Ross also were found guilty of harboring Steinberg, himself a fugitive from a New York indictment charging conspiracy to advocate overthrow of the government.

The three face maximum prison sentences of 11 years and fines of $15,000 each. Steinberg faces a maximum sentence of 10 years and a maximum fine of $15,000.

Judge Louis E. Goodman cancelled bail for all four and ordered them to jail. He will hear motions for a new trial and pass sentence Monday.

Six Albany Liquor Firms Picketed

Six Albany area wholesale liquor dealers, some of whom serve this area, were picketed Monday by truck drivers.

About 70 employes, members of Local 669, Bakery, Laundry, and Beverage Drivers, AFL, struck against Ramapo Wine and Liquor, Service Liquor, Colonie Liquor, Rodgers Liquor, Graves and Rodgers, and Grayrod Trucking Corp.

The union is seeking a wage increase ranging from 23:5 cents to 30 cents an hour, additional vacation time, improvements in the welfare plan and guaranteed weekly overtime.

The strike went into effect Monday after unsuccessful attempts to head it off by a meeting Saturday between the union and companies arranged by William A. Hazell, state mediator. The mediation board is continuing efforts to arrange another conference.

Civilian Pilot Is First U. S. Casualty

Honk Kong, April 27 (AP)—An American civilian pilot flying supplies to besieged French Union forces at Dien Bien Phu is the first U. S. casualty of the bloody battle for Indochina fortress, officials of Civil Air Transport said here today.

The flier is Paul Robert Holden of Greenleaf, Kan., who suffered severe wounds in his right side and right arm when Communist anti-aircraft fire hit his plane over Dien Bien Phu.

Holden is the third listed American casualty of the eight-year-old Indochina War. Two American women, employes of the U. S. Consulate at Saigon, were slain March 8, 1948 by a Vietminh ambush outside Saigon. There were identified as Mrs. Jeanne R. Skewes and Lydia Ruth James.

CAT officials said Holden's condition is serious but not critical.

Co-pilot Wallace A. Buford of Kansas City, Kas., landed the damaged plane safely in French territory, the airline said.

CAT spokesman A. T. Cox said Holden was the airline's chief pilot. He flew for the U. S. Air Force in World War 2 and after the war flew in China until 1947.

Civil Air Transport, headed by retired U. S. Gen. Claire L. Chennault, has its headquarters at Taipeh, Formosa. It has been flying supplies in Indochina for several weeks under contract with the French.

Plane Pilot Is Identified In Central Valley Crash

Central Valley, April 27 (AP)—The pilot of a small plane that crashed and burned near here has been identified by state police as Franklin L. Burgess, 33, of Jackson Heights, Queens, New York city.

In dropping to the ground, the single engine plane cut through high tension power lines near Route 6, about half a mile from here.

Police first were unable to identify the pilot after the crash and reported he was burned beyond recognition.

The plane was owned by Avien Knickerbocker Inc., of Woodside, Queens, a firm in which Burgess was a director, police said. A spokesman for the company told police the plane had taken off from LaGuardia Field and Burgess had said he intended to go to Cape Cod.

Brickhandlers Are Back at Jobs Today

A 25-day old walkout of brickhandlers at the East Kingston Brick Co., Inc., ended today when members of the Brickhandlers' Union Local 1467, AFL, returned to their jobs following an agreement reached between management and union representatives, it was reported at the brickyard.

Approximately 60 members of the union walked off their jobs on April 2 in a dispute over what union spokesmen termed an attempt by a "boss" to make midcontract changes in the employes' set working procedure. The strike did not affect other area brickyards.

Details of the agreement could not be obtained locally. A spokesman said the terms were worked out by the company management from Hoboken and the union president.

Boy Fell From Gate At Local Cemetery, Detective Reports

David Manello, 11, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Manello, of 149 Spring street, who returned to his home Sunday night dazed and injured, was hurt in a fall from a gate at Montrepose Cemetery, Detective Clarence Brophy reported today.

The boy apparently narrowly escaped being crushed under an iron ornamental piece on the gate which tipped loose as he grabbed it while climbing, the detective said.

Mrs. Manello said her son's condition was reported as "fair" at the Benedictine Hospital. He suffered a concussion, back injuries, and appeared to have an injury to his brain, which may require a specialist, his mother said. It had not been determined whether he suffered a skull fracture, she reported.

The iron piece appeared to be insecure at the top of the gate and its moorings were apparently rusted, Mrs. Manello said. It weighed an estimated 150 pounds Detective Brophy said, and Mrs. Manello noted that it dug into the ground as it fell.

The boy remembered having fallen after he recovered from his dazed condition, Mrs. Manello said. He was taken home Sunday night by a man, who saw him running from the cemetery and screaming as he ran.

Two-Year Terms

The by-laws as adopted provide for two-year terms for the directors, with the terms of half the directors to expire each year. No short-term directors were designated on the ballot, and Chairman Bogert announced that it is planned that the directors elected will draw lots for the short terms in order to set up the mechanics under which half the membership of the board is elected yearly.

Warren F. Smith was chairman of the nominating committee that presented a slate of 16 names for directors-at-large. Two additional nominations were received from the floor.

Suit Continues On Cabinets Job

Continued in County Court today was an action brought by Mission Wood Products Co., Inc., of Kingston against Dr. Henry Weiss of Ellenville, an action to recover on contract for labor, services and materials. Richter & Werbalowsky appear for plaintiff and Louis Berger and Abraham Streifer appear for defendant.

Dr. Weiss alleges he contracted with the plaintiff for construction of certain cabinets in his home at a price of $1,569 and that certain additional work was done. The total bill rendered was $1,593. Dr. Weiss contends the work was not satisfactory and when he offered to compromise and pay the bill his offer was refused and he then told the plaintiff an action would have to be started. An action was commenced for payment of the bill. Dr. Weiss contends the quality of the work was not what he expected, that the finish was not right and that the workmanship was poor.

Trial was commenced Monday and continued before Judge Cashin and a jury today.

CYO Art Winners Announced; Quiz, Leagues Planned

Three important announcements concerning Catholic Youth Activities were made today by Leo Schupp, 23 West Pierpont street, Ulster county director, who has two important projects listed for the future.

Schupp, who made public a list of winners in the recent CYO art show in New York, said that there will be a baseball and softball league this summer and gave the date for a quiz contest based on questions about the Marian Year and the Seven Sacraments.

Successful Artists

Ulster county winners in the New York show, that drew 1,400 pieces of art, 40 from this area, were:

Joan Snyder, St. Peter's parish, charcoal media, intermediate division, first place.

Joyce Halloran, St. Mary's parish, oils, intermediate division, second place.

James Flynn, St. Peter's parish, pen and ink, junior division, first place.

Carol Murray, Immaculate Conception parish, pen and ink, midget division, first place.

Winners were awarded gold and silver medals by the Rev. Harold Engle, director of the CYO for the Archdiocese of New York.

Two Sports Planned

Ulster County Director Schupp, thanking those who made it possible for 400 young Catholic boys and girls to play basketball during the past season, announced a meeting for Thursday, April 29 in St. Mary's School Hall at 7 p. m., to make plans for baseball and softball leagues for various age groups.

Stressing the importance of this athletic program, Schupp pointed out that last year St. Joseph's team and that from Immaculate Conception were sponsored for archdiocesan finals in New York and brought the championships to Ulster county for the first time.

William Mahoney, athletic chairman of the Ulster CYO, urges a full attendance of those interested in baseball and softball at Thursday's meeting.

May 1 Quiz Deadline

According to Schupp, the deadline for entering the quiz contest about the Marian Year and Seven Sacraments is May 1, and blanks must be filed with him at his office, 23 West Pierpont street.

Locally the contest will be at St. Peter's School on May 8 at 2 p. m. with the Rev. Patrick Carroll as chairman. The quiz will be oral with each contestant required to answer the same number of questions. Appropriate awards will be given to winners.

Tiger Chews Arm Of Circus Worker

New York, April 27 (AP)—A circus employe cleaning out a tiger's cage at Madison Square Garden was clawed badly on the left arm today.

Police said the injured man, Charles Hicks, 28, of 1005 N. Continental, Kirksville, Mo., was cleaning the cage from the outside with a rake when a Royal Bengal tiger attacked him.

Hicks was taken to Polyclinic Hospital and was to undergo amputation of his arm near the elbow.

Hicks has been employed as a cage boy at the Ringling Brothers & Barnum & Bailey Circus for about two weeks. Police said he was cleaning out cages of some Royal Bengal tigers before they were to be fed raw meat. Saipan, the animal that attacked Hicks, is part of the Bale Animal Act and has been with the circus five years.

Testimony Stands

Washington, April 27 (AP)—One of the prosecution's star witnesses against Cpl. Edward S. Dickenson swore today that he was so confused he wanted to have all of his testimony thrown out of Dickenson's court martial. Recalled for cross-examination, Cpl. Thomas A. Carrick of Blacksburg, Va., told the court in regard to his previous testimony: "I was mistaken—I think so—I am still confused on it." After a vigorous fight by Col. C. Robert Gard, the prosecutor, Carrick's testimony was permitted to remain in evidence for the eight-member court to weigh.

Judge Lauds Rita

Heavy traffic, business establishments, motels and gasoline stations mark the neighborhood.

Prince Sends Lawyer

Prince Aly Khan, father of Yasmin, sent his lawyer into the conference to help his former wife fight the neglect charges. The prince stayed behind at Rita's White Plains hotel to play with his little daughter and afterwards reported, "I had a wonderful time. I spent the afternoon on my knees on the floor."

Khan declined to make any comment on the neglect case.

He flew to New York from California yesterday and got to White Plains just in time for a visit with Miss Hayworth, Haymes and the children before the judge's conference.

Later, Miss Hayworth's lawyer, Bartley Crum, announced he would meet today with Khan's attorney to work out custody terms for Yasmin.

The prince has been seeking custody of the child, the first princess born into his fabulously wealthy family in 200 years. He is reported prepared to settle more than a million dollars on her when he and Rita can agree to terms.

Orson Provides Counsel

Orson Welles, now in Spain, also sent a lawyer to the conference to convey his faith in Rita as a mother. Welles is the father of Rebecca, whom Judge Smyth called "a very sweet little girl indeed."

As Miss Hayworth left the court conference she was nearly crushed by a crowd of on-lookers. Haymes tried to shield her. Rebecca was helped through the crowd by two attorneys.

Rita's face showed signs of strain and nervousness and as she pressed toward her car she was heard to exclaim:

"You silly people. You silly people."

Although the original complaint never was made public, the judge said it "did not allege willful neglect on the part of the mother."

The governess, a friend of the Haymes family for years, denied any neglect of the children. The court agreement provided that she continue as governess for the girls.

Another item in the agreement required Miss Hayworth to provide a private tutor for Rebecca until she can be entered in a regular school. The child's absence from school was reported to be one of the neighbors' complaints.

The judge continued his court's jurisdiction over the children for three months to insure that terms of the agreement are carried out.

Rita, and Haymes and the children moved into the Madison Hotel, the same one in which the couple locked themselves last February to avoid an indebtedness summons for Haymes.

He challenged the business leaders to devise some other kind of acceptable answer to the problem of relocating slum families if they would not endorse the administration's plan.

Miss Naomi Rice, a graduate of Elim Bible Institute in 1946, is conducting a series of evangelistic meetings at the First Assembly of God Church, 87 Fair street.

The series began last Sunday at which time Miss Rice took for her text, Jeremiah 33.3, Call unto me and I will show you great and mighty things, which thou knowest not. She emphasized God's will and capacity to do the impossible, quoting the lives and works of faith of saints of recent centuries. At the conclusion of her message it was reported that three persons came forward for conversion.

Miss Rice graduated in the same class with the Rev. Robert R. Vinson, pastor of the local church, and Mrs. Vinson. She pioneered a church at Canisteo and pastored a church at Albany. At the present time she is engaged in full-time evangelistic work.

The meetings will continue each evening except Mondays for the next three weeks, bginning at 7:45 p. m. The public is invited to attend.

Governors Hear Foreign and Home Problems of Nation

Washington, April 27 (AP)—Top administration leaders today began secret briefing of the nation's state and territorial governors on major foreign and domestic problems.

Foreign affairs was first up for discussion at the two-day meeting called by President Eisenhower. It was expected the talks would deal mainly with the critical situation in Indochina.

Vice President Nixon and Undersecretary of State W. Bedell Smith were to address the governors and answer their questions in closed-door sessions.

Gov. Dan Thornton of Colorado, chairman of the Governor's Conference, was designated to talk to newsmen after morning and afternoon sessions today and tomorrow.

Eisenhower hit on the briefing idea a year ago and the governors liked it so much they asked for a similar fill-in on the nation's problems this year.

A White House statement said Eisenhower arranged the meeting "to bring the heads of the state governments into closer working relationship with the national administration and to draw upon their background of experience and regional knowledge in shaping federal programs."

TV Reaction Is Spotty

New York, April 27 (AP)—One television network's decision to stop daylong coverage of the Army-McCarthy hearings has fans stirred up—but there's disagreement over just how much. Acting Chairman Karl Mundt (R-S.D.) said last night in Washington the investigating subcommittee had received a "deluge" of protest telegrams. However, a spokesman for the National Broadcasting Co. —which yesterday quit carrying the detailed proceedings—said there had been very little reaction. A checkup of TV stations around the country showed similar variance in audience comment, and in New York a spot check by an industry polling service showed that there was a decline yesterday in public interest in the hearings.

VanAken Home Is Damaged by Fire

A fire of undetermined origin damaged the attic of a house owned by Martin Van Aken at 94 Downs street last night.

Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy's report said the blaze was confined to the attic. The call was at 10:37 p. m.

Van Aken lives on the second floor of the two-story frame house and another apartment there is occupied by Kenneth Lowe. Mrs. Hildegard Von Halle lives on the the first floor.

A neighbor had heard an explosion just before the fire was discovered in the attic, the chief's report said. The report indicated that occupants of the house had been in the attic a short time before the fire was discovered, but apparently saw nothing out of order.

Men and equipment from Central and Wiltwyck stations and Wicks Engine Company responded to the call with Cordts Hose company standing by. Police headquarters dispatched Officers Sheldon O'Rourke and William Slover to the scene.

A call at 8:40 p. m., was for a grass fire on the Ups-and-Downs off West Chestnut street.

A fire of undetermined origin damaged the attic of a house owned by Martin Van Aken at 94 Downs street last night.

Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy's report said the blaze was confined to the attic. The call was at 10:37 p. m.

Van Aken lives on the second floor of the two-story frame house and another apartment there is occupied by Kenneth Lowe. Mrs. Hildegard Von Halle lives on the the first floor.

A neighbor had heard an explosion just before the fire was discovered in the attic, the chief's report said. The report indicated that occupants of the house had been in the attic a short time before the fire was discovered, but apparently saw nothing out of order.

Men and equipment from Central and Wiltwyck stations and Wicks Engine Company responded to the call with Cordts Hose company standing by. Police headquarters dispatched Officers Sheldon O'Rourke and William Slover to the scene.

A call at 8:40 p. m., was for a grass fire on the Ups-and-Downs off West Chestnut street.

OIL IN SICILY

Only the Communists are distressed over the discovery of oil in poverty-stricken Sicily. They are afraid that if this traditionally poor Italian area should suddenly become oil-rich their plans for extending their influence there will be foiled.

The oil strike was made recently, after careful geologic surveys, by the Gulf Oil Company. Officials are cautious about the discovery, but acknowledge that Sicilian oil has emerged from the wildcat stage. Several companies are planning to drill wells, and are at present competing for concessions.

If the oil reserves in Sicily are as extensive as they now seem to be, the plight of the people there will be improved immeasurably. Poverty will not be eliminated overnight, nor will all Sicilians be engulfed by sudden prosperity. But certainly the people should benefit, through royalties paid on oil and through increased employment.

The Communists are already complaining that the Sicilians are being exploited, but this is to be expected. They thrive on discontent, and seek to stir it up wherever possible. However, after their experiences in Iran and other countries, the oil companies at work in Sicily should do everything possible to avert charges of exploitation. They should make sure that royalties paid Sicily are fair, and should encourage the government to use the royalties for the benefit of the people.

At present, when the Communist problem in Italy is acute, the discovery of oil in Sicily is especially fortunate. If the oil reserves are extensive, the Italian people will benefit. Should their poverty be eased, the Communist threat will be alleviated.

BIG PAY CUT

Not even the wealthiest men in the world can be sure of their incomes these days. The Nizam of Hyderabad recently took a cut of $526,000 a year in his pay from the Indian government. This cut amounts to one half of the annual compensation he receives from the Government of India for the crown lands he surrendered four years ago. His pay from now on will be $526,000 a year, instead of the $1,052,000 he had been getting.

However, he'll still receive the $2,104,000-a-year privy purse—or expense account, allowed him. And the cut in pay will not affect the reputed two-billion dollar hoard of gold, jewels and cash that the Nizam has salted away in the banks of Bombay. No one need feel sorry for him.

But the fact remains that times are changing even for men like the Nizam of Hyderabad. Their fortunes are no longer so secure as they used to be. Their incomes go down while the living standards of the "little men" are, however, imperceptibly, on the way up. The hydrogen bomb is not the only great force unleashed in this age. The social forces at work to improve their living standards may not be so spectacular, but they are equally profound.

Even men like the Nizam of Hyderabad know we are living in a rapidly-changing world.

The "do-it-yourself" idea is worthwhile but it has limitations. A doctor may be able to build his own house but what is a carpenter to do if his tonsils must come out?

BLOODY SHILOH

One battle in the War Between the States still celebrated annually is Shiloh. Here on the Tennessee River was fought on April 6 and 7, 1862, the severest battle of the war. Union forces under Grant were taken by surprise by Confederates under Albert Sidney Johnston, but later rallied and drove the enemy from the field.

The importance of Shiloh is twofold. Grant learned from it a lesson which he never forgot and later put to good use in the latter days of the war. Here Johnston was killed, and the South lost one of her ablest generals, whose presence might have made a material difference in later battles.

This year's commemoration presented an interesting feature when Maj. Gen. U. S. Grant III, grandson of the Union commander, walked across the battlefield to greet Col. William B. Ruggles, whose grandfather, Gen. Daniel Ruggles, was one of the Confederate leaders.

This gesture of amity is one more reminder of the healing of the wounds which for so long kept North and South apart.

THE VETO ON RED CHINA

Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., the American Ambassador to the United Nations, has made it clear beyond doubt that there are no monkeyshines about the American policy concerning Red China. At the Associated Press luncheon in New York, he indicted Red China of crimes and misdemeanors, succinctly and powerfully stated:

"Because it has repeatedly expressed open contempt for the purposes and principles of the United Nations, and the judgments of the international community.

"Because it stands convicted by the United Nations as an aggressor in Korea, where it killed and wounded may thousands of American and other soldiers who were defending peace.

"Because it continues to support aggression in Indochina, by giving substantial aid and by furnishing advisers and technicians to the Vientminh forces.

"Because it occupied defenseless Tibet and seized control of its Government and resources.

"Because it sponsors guerrilla and subversive movements in Malaya and throughout the rest of Southeast Asia.

"Because it committed dreadful atrocities against Americans and others fighting for the United Nations in Korea and subjected prisoners to physical and mental cruelty in seeking to extort military secrets and confessions of alleged guilt.

"Because it still holds 32 American civilians under barbarous conditions without published charges and subjects these innocent missionaries, journalists and business men to cruel and inhuman treatment.

"Because it willfully fabricated and publicized false evidence of spurious germ warfare charges desired to blacken the reputation of the United States and otherwise carries on a deliberate 'Hate America' propaganda campaign.

"Because it has executed millions of its captive subjects, and forced other millions into slave labor.

"Because it even stoops to an international extortion racket in squeezing millions of dollars from overseas Chinese who try to buy safety and protection for their relatives at home."

This bill of particulars, the most complete I have ever seen, is tantamount to announcing to the world that the United States will employ its veto in the Security Council if an attempt is made to smuggle Red China into the United Nations.

Were Red China admitted to the United Nations, public opinion in this country would beyond doubt demand that the United States withdraw from it. In many respects that would, at this stage of international relations, be a tragedy because, as Lodge pointed out, the alternative to talk is often war, and it this stage needs to be averted. If the United Nations performs no other historic service than to delay World War III, that will be a task accomplished. We have been on the verge of World War III since 1945, but it has not happened.

Undoubtedly a major impediment to any success of the United Nations is the extravagant propaganda that has been hurled at the world in favor of it. Too much was said for it; too much has been expected of it.

After all, as Henry Cabot Lodge said:

"Now, the wars that don't happen are not dramatic. But there is real satisfaction in working in a place where you feel that sometimes you have helped prevent fighting and bloodshed even if it requires some verbal toe dancing and walking on eggs and what, to most of us, appears to be pettifogging. There are some circumstances in international affairs when the best thing to do is to stall for time and give people a chance to cool off. . . ."

At most, the United Nations should be a parliament of nations, a meeting place, a vent for outbursts of anger, a bargaining counter for compromises. If the United Nations limited itself to this type of activity and gave up aspirations for world government, it would accomplish more without arousing so much suspicion, particularly among Americans who are not anxious to be governed by anyone but themselves.

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

OPERATION WHICH RELIEVES DEEP GRIEF

I have written several times about lobotomy, the operation of cutting a nerve in the front part of the skull, which gives relief from unbearable pain and deep grief. One of the original surgeons performing this operation is Dr. W. Freeman. In the American Journal of Psychiatry, Dr. Freeman presents a study of the follow-up of 1000 cases of lobotomy.

Dr. Freeman states, "Most follow-up studies after lobotomy have been performed on patients remaining in the hospital." He feels that tracing discharged patients in their own community is the proper field for investigation. Accordingly, Dr. Freeman presents a study of 622 cases who had Freeman-Watts prefrontal operation performed on them. They were followed for at least two years; many for more than 10 years, or until death. The other main group consisted of 498 patients who underwent transorbital lobotomy (another method of lobotomy) and who were followed for one year at least and most for periods up to five years or until death.

One hundred of these patients were dropped for various reasons, which left 1020 for investigation.

Personal interviews together with letters from patients and relatives, telephone conversations, and reports from physicians and hospitals were utilized. The results from patients and relatives were transferred to punch cards for greater ease in handling. The cards were divided into two groups based on social adjustment at the end of the second year after prefrontal lobotomy and after the first year after transorbital lobotomy.

There were 444 with good adjustment and 576 with poor adjustment.

Patients who adjusted well at the end of two years after lobotomy or one year after transorbital lobotomy were employed, going to school, keeping house, or otherwise contributing something to the community. Those with poor adjustment were all those in hospital, whether or not they were engaged in some useful occupation, as well as those who remained at home depending on others.

Records of the patients were carefully analyzed in an effort to determine the factors responsible for good behavior. It was found that the level of achievement improved with time.

The outstanding feature in high-level adjustment is the short duration of the disability.

What do we learn from this investigation by Drs. Watt and Freeman?

"Since community activities and professional competence are possible after lobotomy, it is apparent that the downgrading (lack of feeling of responsibility would be attributed to the devastating effects of the underlying disease process. This means, then, it is safer to operate than to wait. Waiting allows the underlying disease to progress.

"I Got an Awful Feelin' I Ain't Wanted"

Edson's Washington News Notebook

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington (NEA)—Disclosure of the now-voided 1943 agreement between Franklin D. Roosevelt and Sir Winston Churchill, restricting the use of the atomic bomb, has raised the question of how many such "secret" international agreements shall be published annually.

Individual treaties and agreements are printed in pamphlet form. They are distributed officially to congressmen and appropriate government agencies. And they are sold by the Government Printing Office to anyone interested at from five cents to a dollar apiece, depending on size. To this extent, American diplomacy is a completely open book, with no secrets involved.

The present series of "U. S. Treaties and Other International Agreements" begun in 1946 combined two previous series. The old series of treaties numbered 994 documents. A newer series of executive agreements, begun in the 1930's, ran to a total of 506.

When the two were combined, the numbering began with 1501. Today the series is in the 2800's. This means that some 1300 of these treaties and agreements have been made in the eight post-war years.

Treaties, of course, are formal agreements ratified by the U. S. Senate. The agreements are made by the President with the heads of other states under his constitutional powers.

Agreements may also be made by the President's designated representatives, like commanding generals of armies in the field, cabinet officers or ambassadors.

A study of the agreements made in 1953 disclosed that approximately 85 per cent of them had been made in accord with legislation passed by Congress. Another 10 per cent were made to carry out the administrative details of treaties ratified by the Senate.

These agreements cover such things as air routes and landing rights for commercial aircraft, military advisory missions, economic assistance, educational exchange, technical cooperation projects, or exemptions from income tax on shipping agreements.

The five per cent of the agreements not covered by legal or treaty authorizations include such things as exchanges of diplomatic notes between governments, communiques issued at the end of international conferences, or agreements between the President of the United States and the heads of foreign governments.

What brings all these exchanges within the range of the public treaty series is that they set foreign policy or apply to the conduct of a war.

At the time, 1943, that President Roosevelt made his deal with Churchill at Quebec on use of the atomic bomb, it was two years before the first bomb was dropped. So this pact had to be kept secret. The same restriction applied to those parts of the Yalta agreement of 1945, on the conduct of the closing phases of World War 2.

These are the only once-secret agreements that have ever been disclosed. If there are others, they're still secret.

Research indicates that the United States has been a party to only one secret treaty in its entire history. This was "An Act Separate and Secret" from a "Treaty of Alliance, Amity and Commerce" negotiated with France and approved by the Continental Congress of 1778.

Secrecy was of course the accepted practice in international relations up through World War 1. Many of the German Kaiser's alliances of that era were based on secret treaties.

To end secret diplomacy, the first of President Woodrow Wilson's 14 points for ending World War 1 called for "Open covenants, openly arrived at" and no more private international understandings.

In spite of that ideal for a perfect world, the realities of modern diplomacy demand the continuance of many private international understandings. Thus the text of the broad North Atlantic Treaty can be made public. But the international defense plans and agreements to carry out the NATO concept must always remain secret. To publicize them would wreck the defense of the entire free world.

Today at Geneva Parley

Firmness of Dulles Considered Major Factor Barring Victory for Communists

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Geneva, April 27 — An atmosphere of frigid politeness if not veiled hostility prevails here between the United States delegation and the delegations representing North Korean, Chinese and Soviet Communists.

The other fifteen countries which participated in the Korean War and have come here for the so-called peace conference seem to be just interested but not overly concerned spectators.

Wisely Secretary of State Dulles refrained from assuming the post of a rotating chairman, preferring to stay in the background and thus avoiding the embarrassment of sitting in the presiding officer's chair where conceivably he would be dealing in a parliamentary sense with the Red China spokesmen.

It seems incredible that Soviet Russia would have the effrontery to ask that Red China be seated as an equal of the powers at this conference. It is even more fantastic that the government at Peiping which not so many months ago was professing to the world that it had nothing to do with the intervention by Chinese Communist troops in Korea and that these were merely "Chinese volunteers" should now be asking for equal recognition as a "major power."

It was only a few months ago, too, that the United Nations was by formal resolution declaring the government of Red China to be an aggressor, but at the conference here one would think the Red Chinese were as respectable as the governments of the free world. Only by reason of the studied aloofness by the United States delegation is there any impression conveyed that the Chinese Communist Government is regarded as guilty of one of the worst crimes in all history. So far as public opinion in and around Geneva is concerned — if indeed there is such a thing—the Red Chinese are just another government engaged in some diplomatic exchanges here in one more of the many international conferences which from time to time have been convened in this center of Swiss neutrality.

The Red Chinese and Russians are housed in the best hotels and appear to be enjoying their newfound equality, at least as delegates. What seems to be forgotten is that the Communists are responsible for atrocity murders of hundreds of thousands of captives from various countries, plus the death of 35,000 American boys, and the wounding of more than 100,000 other Americans. This was a war which the United States entered not to protect a colony as France did in Indo-China but to repel aggression on the theory that the cause of world peace would be advanced by that action. But here this lofty motive is lost sight of as the pressure comes from public opinion in Britain and France to make some sort of deal with the Communists. If it were not for America's stubborn opposition to such a course—prompted by an awakened public opinion in the United States—this conference would wind up quickly in an abject surrender to the Communists. The will to resist communistic aggression is theoretical rather than real and is applied primarily to Europe. Here on this continent isolationism is quite popular, only it is known by the more euphemistic term "nationalism."

Here in Europe, moreover, it is considered proper for Frenchmen to believe in France above all else and for Britons to believe in Britain above all else, but somehow when an American back home voices such sentiments with respect to his own country, he is called a "right winger" or an "isolationist," which is supposed to be to be a first cousin to a Fascist from Nazi Germany. The truth, however, is that isolation is the paramount policy of each country in Europe, and such organizations as the European defense community and even the NATO setup are regarded as devices invented by the United States and are tolerated merely as one way of getting economic and military aid, both of which, of course, are sorely needed.

Americans can be proud of John Foster Dulles, their secretary of state, for he manifests on every occasion the firmness so necessary to keep this conference from becoming a victory for the Communists. He naturally has to tread cautiously here as the French play a skillful game in Indochina, and the Communists, well aware of the strains between the free governments, seek to obtain acceptance of a formula which will pay lip service to the unification of divided Korea or a divided Indochina but which can only mean, if not rejected here, the triumph of communistic infiltration.

It will take several days for the preliminary sparring to be completed and Secretary Dulles has already revealed that he plans to stay only 10 days, so the Communists will have to come forward in that time with something concrete or see the conference itself dissolve into a contest of staying power not unlike that at Panmunjom. For the hotels are comfortable and the luxuries of life for the Communists are such a welcome change from their routine as to make the delegates from Moscow and Peiping not at all anxious to hurry back home. It looks like a long-drawn-out conference.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York, April 26—All important reforms are hard-won and the persecution of innocent litigants by federal judges, especially but not only in New York, will not be corrected until it has been thoroughly exposed and made dramatic to the public. There is no hope of any remedial action by any bar association. First, lawyers profit by this abuse and, second, those lawyers who have the ethical decency to condemn it are afraid to challenge the malice of low-grade judges who will get a crack at them in due course.

It is common practice to subject litigants to prolonged harassment intended to compel them to settle claims by payment of money, at a sacrifice of their just rights. This abuse is not only permitted but encouraged by most of the eastern bench, and lawyers in other parts of the country are amazed when they are told that, literally, anything under the sun may be brought into such examinations, to the extent of thousands of pages.

Fraudulent documents may be introduced apparently without risk of punishment. And the best answer that a lawyer can give a client who tries to understand why some shyster may make insinuating inquiries about his wife's private thoughts is that it is useless to complain to the court. The judge will just order the witness to go back and answer, anyway, with a possibility that, at some future time, an objection will be sustained. However, that does not mean that it will be expunged. The actual script of the questions and the answers will remain in existence.

Whittaker Chambers wrote that it was the treatment suffered by his wife in a libel suit brought by Alger Hiss that finally prompted him to shoot the works and send Hiss to prison. He tells of it in his book, "Witness." That libel suit seems to have been a bluff by Hiss, however sincere his lawyers may have been. It never went to trial, because meanwhile, the issues were tried in the criminal case and were proven with implications of treason.

Esther Chambers had been called as a witness in a typical pre-trial examination in private law offices in Baltimore. Chambers said the Hiss lawyers "had given her a bad time."

"No doubt," he wrote, "pre-trial examination must often be rough. But there is little doubt, either, that that one went beyond any routine roughness. For there is no doubt that the Hiss lawyers recognized instantly that Esther Chambers was a most dangerous witness to them not only because her memory for concrete detail was vivid but because her sincerity is transparent and infectuous. Therefore, the Hiss lawyers had harried her to tears. The tone of their treatment of her is fixed, I think, in the one question. That has stayed in my mind. My wife had testified that when we were living on St. Paul St., after my break with communism, we had owned only a few plates that we had bought at a dime store.

"'Well, you didn't eat off the floor, did you, Mrs. Chambers?' asked William Marbury.

"There is a natural gentleness that even the basest men accord a woman, not by reason of courtesy alone, but by an instinct rooted in all that makes them men."

Chambers related that Tom Murphy, the U. S. attorney in the Hiss prosecution, called Marbury a foul name in discussing the incident with him, later.

"Let that epithet stand to Murphy's honor as long as memories last," Chambers said.

It will be seen that the abuse is practiced not only in the New York federal courts but in other districts as well. However, it is a localized evil and it is the fault of the judges who sit aloof, remote and contemptuous of the rights and comfort of persecuted citizens. On the other hand, Judge Claude C. McCulloch, of Oregon, has written that he would not permit any lawyer so to harass a litigant.

Any lawyer who could not complete his pre-trial examination within two court days would be called before the bench and made to wind it up under the judge's eyes. This is the practice in the western courts. The only explanation offered by eastern judges for their complicity in such degradations of the courts which they are supposed to adorn is that they are too busy. That, however, is no excuse for their guilty refusal to step in to rebuke shysters who are notorious in the corridors and chambers of the courts where they sit.

Thousands upon thousands of pages of transcript are run up at a tremendous financial burden to the victim, to say nothing of the great loss of time and the personal ordeal, all before the case ever gets to court. Supercilious, negligent judges issue subpoenas forcing busy citizens to abandon their regular occupations and devote themselves for months at a time to a search for documents which may not exist at all and would have absolutely nothing to do with the case if they could be found. This amounts to servitude outside jail by a sentence of federal judges who refuse to show the slightest interest in the facts. Often they refuse even to listen to arguments and more often when they have listened they utter insulting and degrading sneers at lawyers seeking relief from their persecutions.

There seems to be absolutely no superior authority which can discipline these judges.

A defendant in a political strike suit which later went to naught was put to many days of harassment in such a hearing in Washington, D. C. The political motive and malice were obvious but the court refused to move. One lawyer said the examination was the most degrading humiliation of an innocent citizen that he had ever heard. The citizen's innocence was proven when the complaint was abandoned. Nevertheless, the record remains in existence and enemies of the vindicated defendant have threatened to publish the entire text in reprisal for his patriotic conduct.

At present, when the Communist problem in Italy is acute, the discovery of oil in Sicily is especially fortunate. If the oil reserves are extensive, the Italian people will benefit. Should their poverty be eased, the Communist threat will be alleviated.

BIG PAY CUT

Not even the wealthiest men in the world can be sure of their incomes these days. The Nizam of Hyderabad recently took a cut of $526,000 a year in his pay from the Indian government. This cut amounts to one half of the annual compensation he receives from the Government of India for the crown lands he surrendered four years ago. His pay from now on will be $526,000 a year, instead of the $1,052,000 he had been getting.

However, he'll still receive the $2,104,000-a-year privy purse—or expense account, allowed him. And the cut in pay will not affect the reputed two-billion dollar hoard of gold, jewels and cash that the Nizam has salted away in the banks of Bombay. No one need feel sorry for him.

But the fact remains that times are changing even for men like the Nizam of Hyderabad. Their fortunes are no longer so secure as they used to be. Their incomes go down while the living standards of the "little men" are, however, imperceptibly, on the way up. The hydrogen bomb is not the only great force unleashed in this age. The social forces at work to improve their living standards may not be so spectacular, but they are equally profound.

Even men like the Nizam of Hyderabad know we are living in a rapidly-changing world.

The "do-it-yourself" idea is worthwhile but it has limitations. A doctor may be able to build his own house but what is a carpenter to do if his tonsils must come out?

BLOODY SHILOH

One battle in the War Between the States still celebrated annually is Shiloh. Here on the Tennessee River was fought on April 6 and 7, 1862, the severest battle of the war. Union forces under Grant were taken by surprise by Confederates under Albert Sidney Johnston, but later rallied and drove the enemy from the field.

The importance of Shiloh is twofold. Grant learned from it a lesson which he never forgot and later put to good use in the latter days of the war. Here Johnston was killed, and the South lost one of her ablest generals, whose presence might have made a material difference in later battles.

This year's commemoration presented an interesting feature when Maj. Gen. U. S. Grant III, grandson of the Union commander, walked across the battlefield to greet Col. William B. Ruggles, whose grandfather, Gen. Daniel Ruggles, was one of the Confederate leaders.

This gesture of amity is one more reminder of the healing of the wounds which for so long kept North and South apart.

THE VETO ON RED CHINA

Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., the American Ambassador to the United Nations, has made it clear beyond doubt that there are no monkeyshines about the American policy concerning Red China. At the Associated Press luncheon in New York, he indicted Red China of crimes and misdemeanors, succinctly and powerfully stated:

"Because it has repeatedly expressed open contempt for the purposes and principles of the United Nations, and the judgments of the international community.

"Because it stands convicted by the United Nations as an aggressor in Korea, where it killed and wounded may thousands of American and other soldiers who were defending peace.

"Because it continues to support aggression in Indochina, by giving substantial aid and by furnishing advisers and technicians to the Vientminh forces.

"Because it occupied defenseless Tibet and seized control of its Government and resources.

"Because it sponsors guerrilla and subversive movements in Malaya and throughout the rest of Southeast Asia.

"Because it committed dreadful atrocities against Americans and others fighting for the United Nations in Korea and subjected prisoners to physical and mental cruelty in seeking to extort military secrets and confessions of alleged guilt.

"Because it still holds 32 American civilians under barbarous conditions without published charges and subjects these innocent missionaries, journalists and business men to cruel and inhuman treatment.

"Because it willfully fabricated and publicized false evidence of spurious germ warfare charges desired to blacken the reputation of the United States and otherwise carries on a deliberate 'Hate America' propaganda campaign.

"Because it has executed millions of its captive subjects, and forced other millions into slave labor.

"Because it even stoops to an international extortion racket in squeezing millions of dollars from overseas Chinese who try to buy safety and protection for their relatives at home."

This bill of particulars, the most complete I have ever seen, is tantamount to announcing to the world that the United States will employ its veto in the Security Council if an attempt is made to smuggle Red China into the United Nations.

Were Red China admitted to the United Nations, public opinion in this country would beyond doubt demand that the United States withdraw from it. In many respects that would, at this stage of international relations, be a tragedy because, as Lodge pointed out, the alternative to talk is often war, and it this stage needs to be averted. If the United Nations performs no other historic service than to delay World War III, that will be a task accomplished. We have been on the verge of World War III since 1945, but it has not happened.

Undoubtedly a major impediment to any success of the United Nations is the extravagant propaganda that has been hurled at the world in favor of it. Too much was said for it; too much has been expected of it.

After all, as Henry Cabot Lodge said:

"Now, the wars that don't happen are not dramatic. But there is real satisfaction in working in a place where you feel that sometimes you have helped prevent fighting and bloodshed even if it requires some verbal toe dancing and walking on eggs and what, to most of us, appears to be pettifogging. There are some circumstances in international affairs when the best thing to do is to stall for time and give people a chance to cool off. . . ."

At most, the United Nations should be a parliament of nations, a meeting place, a vent for outbursts of anger, a bargaining counter for compromises. If the United Nations limited itself to this type of activity and gave up aspirations for world government, it would accomplish more without arousing so much suspicion, particularly among Americans who are not anxious to be governed by anyone but themselves.

That Body of Yours

OPERATION WHICH RELIEVES DEEP GRIEF

I have written several times about lobotomy, the operation of cutting a nerve in the front part of the skull, which gives relief from unbearable pain and deep grief. One of the original surgeons performing this operation is Dr. W. Freeman. In the American Journal of Psychiatry, Dr. Freeman presents a study of the follow-up of 1000 cases of lobotomy.

Dr. Freeman states, "Most follow-up studies after lobotomy have been performed on patients remaining in the hospital." He feels that tracing discharged patients in their own community is the proper field for investigation. Accordingly, Dr. Freeman presents a study of 622 cases who had Freeman-Watts prefrontal operation performed on them. They were followed for at least two years; many for more than 10 years, or until death. The other main group consisted of 498 patients who underwent transorbital lobotomy (another method of lobotomy) and who were followed for one year at least and most for periods up to five years or until death.

One hundred of these patients were dropped for various reasons, which left 1020 for investigation.

Personal interviews together with letters from patients and relatives, telephone conversations, and reports from physicians and hospitals were utilized. The results from patients and relatives were transferred to punch cards for greater ease in handling. The cards were divided into two groups based on social adjustment at the end of the second year after prefrontal lobotomy and after the first year after transorbital lobotomy.

There were 444 with good adjustment and 576 with poor adjustment.

Patients who adjusted well at the end of two years after lobotomy or one year after transorbital lobotomy were employed, going to school, keeping house, or otherwise contributing something to the community. Those with poor adjustment were all those in hospital, whether or not they were engaged in some useful occupation, as well as those who remained at home depending on others.

Records of the patients were carefully analyzed in an effort to determine the factors responsible for good behavior. It was found that the level of achievement improved with time.

The outstanding feature in high-level adjustment is the short duration of the disability.

What do we learn from this investigation by Drs. Watt and Freeman?

"Since community activities and professional competence are possible after lobotomy, it is apparent that the downgrading (lack of feeling of responsibility would be attributed to the devastating effects of the underlying disease process. This means, then, it is safer to operate than to wait. Waiting allows the underlying disease to progress.

"I Got an Awful Feelin' I Ain't Wanted"

Edson's Washington News Notebook

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington (NEA)—Disclosure of the now-voided 1943 agreement between Franklin D. Roosevelt and Sir Winston Churchill, restricting the use of the atomic bomb, has raised the question of how many such "secret" international agreements shall be published annually.

Individual treaties and agreements are printed in pamphlet form. They are distributed officially to congressmen and appropriate government agencies. And they are sold by the Government Printing Office to anyone interested at from five cents to a dollar apiece, depending on size. To this extent, American diplomacy is a completely open book, with no secrets involved.

The present series of "U. S. Treaties and Other International Agreements" begun in 1946 combined two previous series. The old series of treaties numbered 994 documents. A newer series of executive agreements, begun in the 1930's, ran to a total of 506.

When the two were combined, the numbering began with 1501. Today the series is in the 2800's. This means that some 1300 of these treaties and agreements have been made in the eight post-war years.

Treaties, of course, are formal agreements ratified by the U. S. Senate. The agreements are made by the President with the heads of other states under his constitutional powers.

Agreements may also be made by the President's designated representatives, like commanding generals of armies in the field, cabinet officers or ambassadors.

A study of the agreements made in 1953 disclosed that approximately 85 per cent of them had been made in accord with legislation passed by Congress. Another 10 per cent were made to carry out the administrative details of treaties ratified by the Senate.

These agreements cover such things as air routes and landing rights for commercial aircraft, military advisory missions, economic assistance, educational exchange, technical cooperation projects, or exemptions from income tax on shipping agreements.

The five per cent of the agreements not covered by legal or treaty authorizations include such things as exchanges of diplomatic notes between governments, communiques issued at the end of international conferences, or agreements between the President of the United States and the heads of foreign governments.

What brings all these exchanges within the range of the public treaty series is that they set foreign policy or apply to the conduct of a war.

At the time, 1943, that President Roosevelt made his deal with Churchill at Quebec on use of the atomic bomb, it was two years before the first bomb was dropped. So this pact had to be kept secret. The same restriction applied to those parts of the Yalta agreement of 1945, on the conduct of the closing phases of World War 2.

These are the only once-secret agreements that have ever been disclosed. If there are others, they're still secret.

Research indicates that the United States has been a party to only one secret treaty in its entire history. This was "An Act Separate and Secret" from a "Treaty of Alliance, Amity and Commerce" negotiated with France and approved by the Continental Congress of 1778.

Secrecy was of course the accepted practice in international relations up through World War 1. Many of the German Kaiser's alliances of that era were based on secret treaties.

To end secret diplomacy, the first of President Woodrow Wilson's 14 points for ending World War 1 called for "Open covenants, openly arrived at" and no more private international understandings.

In spite of that ideal for a perfect world, the realities of modern diplomacy demand the continuance of many private international understandings. Thus the text of the broad North Atlantic Treaty can be made public. But the international defense plans and agreements to carry out the NATO concept must always remain secret. To publicize them would wreck the defense of the entire free world.

Today at Geneva Parley

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Geneva, April 27 — An atmosphere of frigid politeness if not veiled hostility prevails here between the United States delegation and the delegations representing North Korean, Chinese and Soviet Communists.

The other fifteen countries which participated in the Korean War and have come here for the so-called peace conference seem to be just interested but not overly concerned spectators.

Wisely Secretary of State Dulles refrained from assuming the post of a rotating chairman, preferring to stay in the background and thus avoiding the embarrassment of sitting in the presiding officer's chair where conceivably he would be dealing in a parliamentary sense with the Red China spokesmen.

It seems incredible that Soviet Russia would have the effrontery to ask that Red China be seated as an equal of the powers at this conference. It is even more fantastic that the government at Peiping which not so many months ago was professing to the world that it had nothing to do with the intervention by Chinese Communist troops in Korea and that these were merely "Chinese volunteers" should now be asking for equal recognition as a "major power."

It was only a few months ago, too, that the United Nations was by formal resolution declaring the government of Red China to be an aggressor, but at the conference here one would think the Red Chinese were as respectable as the governments of the free world. Only by reason of the studied aloofness by the United States delegation is there any impression conveyed that the Chinese Communist Government is regarded as guilty of one of the worst crimes in all history. So far as public opinion in and around Geneva is concerned — if indeed there is such a thing—the Red Chinese are just another government engaged in some diplomatic exchanges here in one more of the many international conferences which from time to time have been convened in this center of Swiss neutrality.

The Red Chinese and Russians are housed in the best hotels and appear to be enjoying their newfound equality, at least as delegates. What seems to be forgotten is that the Communists are responsible for atrocity murders of hundreds of thousands of captives from various countries, plus the death of 35,000 American boys, and the wounding of more than 100,000 other Americans. This was a war which the United States entered not to protect a colony as France did in Indo-China but to repel aggression on the theory that the cause of world peace would be advanced by that action. But here this lofty motive is lost sight of as the pressure comes from public opinion in Britain and France to make some sort of deal with the Communists. If it were not for America's stubborn opposition to such a course—prompted by an awakened public opinion in the United States—this conference would wind up quickly in an abject surrender to the Communists. The will to resist communistic aggression is theoretical rather than real and is applied primarily to Europe. Here on this continent isolationism is quite popular, only it is known by the more euphemistic term "nationalism."

Here in Europe, moreover, it is considered proper for Frenchmen to believe in France above all else and for Britons to believe in Britain above all else, but somehow when an American back home voices such sentiments with respect to his own country, he is called a "right winger" or an "isolationist," which is supposed to be to be a first cousin to a Fascist from Nazi Germany. The truth, however, is that isolation is the paramount policy of each country in Europe, and such organizations as the European defense community and even the NATO setup are regarded as devices invented by the United States and are tolerated merely as one way of getting economic and military aid, both of which, of course, are sorely needed.

Americans can be proud of John Foster Dulles, their secretary of state, for he manifests on every occasion the firmness so necessary to keep this conference from becoming a victory for the Communists. He naturally has to tread cautiously here as the French play a skillful game in Indochina, and the Communists, well aware of the strains between the free governments, seek to obtain acceptance of a formula which will pay lip service to the unification of divided Korea or a divided Indochina but which can only mean, if not rejected here, the triumph of communistic infiltration.

It will take several days for the preliminary sparring to be completed and Secretary Dulles has already revealed that he plans to stay only 10 days, so the Communists will have to come forward in that time with something concrete or see the conference itself dissolve into a contest of staying power not unlike that at Panmunjom. For the hotels are comfortable and the luxuries of life for the Communists are such a welcome change from their routine as to make the delegates from Moscow and Peiping not at all anxious to hurry back home. It looks like a long-drawn-out conference.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York, April 26—All important reforms are hard-won and the persecution of innocent litigants by federal judges, especially but not only in New York, will not be corrected until it has been thoroughly exposed and made dramatic to the public. There is no hope of any remedial action by any bar association. First, lawyers profit by this abuse and, second, those lawyers who have the ethical decency to condemn it are afraid to challenge the malice of low-grade judges who will get a crack at them in due course.

It is common practice to subject litigants to prolonged harassment intended to compel them to settle claims by payment of money, at a sacrifice of their just rights. This abuse is not only permitted but encouraged by most of the eastern bench, and lawyers in other parts of the country are amazed when they are told that, literally, anything under the sun may be brought into such examinations, to the extent of thousands of pages.

Fraudulent documents may be introduced apparently without risk of punishment. And the best answer that a lawyer can give a client who tries to understand why some shyster may make insinuating inquiries about his wife's private thoughts is that it is useless to complain to the court. The judge will just order the witness to go back and answer, anyway, with a possibility that, at some future time, an objection will be sustained. However, that does not mean that it will be expunged. The actual script of the questions and the answers will remain in existence.

Whittaker Chambers wrote that it was the treatment suffered by his wife in a libel suit brought by Alger Hiss that finally prompted him to shoot the works and send Hiss to prison. He tells of it in his book, "Witness." That libel suit seems to have been a bluff by Hiss, however sincere his lawyers may have been. It never went to trial, because meanwhile, the issues were tried in the criminal case and were proven with implications of treason.

Esther Chambers had been called as a witness in a typical pre-trial examination in private law offices in Baltimore. Chambers said the Hiss lawyers "had given her a bad time."

"No doubt," he wrote, "pre-trial examination must often be rough. But there is little doubt, either, that that one went beyond any routine roughness. For there is no doubt that the Hiss lawyers recognized instantly that Esther Chambers was a most dangerous witness to them not only because her memory for concrete detail was vivid but because her sincerity is transparent and infectuous. Therefore, the Hiss lawyers had harried her to tears. The tone of their treatment of her is fixed, I think, in the one question. That has stayed in my mind. My wife had testified that when we were living on St. Paul St., after my break with communism, we had owned only a few plates that we had bought at a dime store.

" 'Well, you didn't eat off the floor, did you, Mrs. Chambers?' asked William Marbury.

"There is a natural gentleness that even the basest men accord a woman, not by reason of courtesy alone, but by an instinct rooted in all that makes them men."

Chambers related that Tom Murphy, the U. S. attorney in the Hiss prosecution, called Marbury a foul name in discussing the incident with him, later.

"Let that epithet stand to Murphy's honor as long as memories last," Chambers said.

It will be seen that the abuse is practiced not only in the New York federal courts but in other districts as well. However, it is a localized evil and it is the fault of the judges who sit aloof, remote and contemptuous of the rights and comfort of persecuted citizens. On the other hand, Judge Claude C. McCulloch, of Oregon, has written that he would not permit any lawyer so to harass a litigant.

Any lawyer who could not complete his pre-trial examination within two court days would be called before the bench and made to wind it up under the judge's eyes. This is the practice in the western courts. The only explanation offered by eastern judges for their complicity in such degradations of the courts which they are supposed to adorn is that they are too busy. That, however, is no excuse for their guilty refusal to step in to rebuke shysters who are notorious in the corridors and chambers of the courts where they sit.

Thousands upon thousands of pages of transcript are run up at a tremendous financial burden to the victim, to say nothing of the great loss of time and the personal ordeal, all before the case ever gets to court. Supercilious, negligent judges issue subpoenas forcing busy citizens to abandon their regular occupations and devote themselves for months at a time to a search for documents which may not exist at all and would have absolutely nothing to do with the case if they could be found. This amounts to servitude outside jail by a sentence of federal judges who refuse to show the slightest interest in the facts. Often they refuse even to listen to arguments and more often when they have listened they utter insulting and degrading sneers at lawyers seeking relief from their persecutions.

There seems to be absolutely no superior authority which can discipline these judges.

A defendant in a political strike suit which later went to naught was put to many days of harassment in such a hearing in Washington, D. C. The political motive and malice were obvious but the court refused to move. One lawyer said the examination was the most degrading humiliation of an innocent citizen that he had ever heard. The citizen's innocence was proven when the complaint was abandoned. Nevertheless, the record remains in existence and enemies of the vindicated defendant have threatened to publish the entire text in reprisal for his patriotic conduct.

During the rally each Cub Pack will present a demonstration, while the Troops and Post will participate in competitive events which will include:

Events Included

Flagpole relay race, first aid, Morse signaling, wheelbarrow relay, and fold-up—the latter demonstrating skills with a pup-tent and use of knots and lashings. There also will be a surprise event for all unit leaders.

The commissioner staff of John Spader, John Wilkie, and Ole Christenson, led by Commissioner Tremper, will conduct the events. Judges will be provided by the Kingston Junior Chamber of Commerce including Robert MacKinnon, Stanley Dempsey, Alan McCorkle, Jack Doyle and Robert Matthews.

Will Start Proceedings

New York, April 27 (AP)—Moreland Commissioner Archie O. Dawson says that if abuses in workmen's compensation cases are not stopped he will start proceedings to revoke licenses of physicians involved. Dawson also told a group of about 25 representatives of private and public hospitals and medical societies yesterday that he will hold public hearings to bring names of hospitals involved to public attention. The commissioner called the conference after his investigation disclosed that some physicians and hospitals had collected feees for workmen's compensation cases, although they rendered no services. He said that in certain cases these fees were pooled and distributed "in an arbitrary manner."

Seed costs account for about 6 per cent of the total cost of producing corn.

Give $150,264 Figure

New York, April 27 (AP)—The chief prosecutor in gambler Frank Costello's trial on income tax evasion charges says government witnesses already have testified to $150,264 expenditures by Costello during the four years covered by the indictment. The government is seeking to prove that Costello and his wife lived on a scale beyond his reported income. Costello, 62, is on trial in Federal Court on charges of evading at least $73,437 in income taxes for the years 1946 through 1949. The $150,264 figure was given to newsmen yesterday by Chief Asst. Dist. Atty. Lloyd F. MacMahon. He noted, however, that the reported expenditures included payments of current taxes and delinquent taxes dating back to 1926.

"Somewhere I read that dividend-paying stocks on The Exchange were averaging 6% returns. That clicked. I remembered that money at 6% doubles in 12 years. With a broker's help, I bought my first shares. It's a good feeling!"

"I want to retire some day and really enjoy life. I'll get a pension, but I would like to supplement that. So I started a stock-buying program I call my 'fund for fun.' By re-investing dividends, every dollar should double in about ten years."

TRAVIS W. POOLE, lawyer, Richmond, Va.

"I'm investing conservatively for a fair return with as little risk as possible. On the advice of my broker I plan to review my holdings often, re-invest dividends and buy regularly to balance market swings. I like my plan and have confidence in it."

Perhaps you've been thinking about buying stock. If so, call on the New York Stock Exchange member firm nearest you. You'll find a warm and friendly welcome there and helpful advice about investments, no matter how large or small.

And you needn't be wealthy—most stock owners in America are of modest means. About one-third earn under $5,000 a year, the great majority under $10,000.

The growth of American industry is the envy of the world—the potentialities for the long pull seem as great now as ever. There are risks, it's true—which you should understand before you invest. But there are risks in owning any property.

THE MARQUEE

T.V. — STAGE — RADIO — RECORDS — PEOPLE

By DICK KLEINER

A survey of 1568 radio and 273 TV stations, made for Sponsor magazine, shows interesting trends in programming. But perhaps the most stimulating set of statistics is this comparison:

61 per cent of the stations reported that they programmed classical or pop concert music. But 65 per cent programmed hillbilly, Western, polka or other folk music.

So classical music plays second violin to hillbilly. What serious music obviously needs is some new tunes—like a Symphony in C-minor for Squeezebox and Banjo.

Shame on you, Josephine Hull. Hiding things, and at your age, too. The horrible details of Mrs. Hull's deep, dark secret come via Charlotte Van Lein, a tall, beautiful red-head who appears with Mrs. Hull in "Solid Gold Cadillac." Van is a self-confessed New York Giant fan, which is her privilege. She thought that Mrs. Hull was a baseball neutral. But truth will out. One fateful evening, Van and Mrs. Hull were standing in the wings, waiting to go on, when this dialog occurred:

Miss Van Lein: "You don't like baseball, do you?"

Mrs. Hull (looking around for eavesdroppers): "Ssssh! I really do but, you see, my maid, Selina, is a Dodger fan. I love the Giants. But I don't want to hurt Selina's feelings, so I make believe I don't care."

"I'm not interesting," says Peg Lynch. "I just work like a dog."

She may work like a dog, but she definitely is interesting. In fact, her very doggishness is, in itself, interesting. Miss Lynch, as you know, is the author and co-star, with Alan Bunce, of the delightful "Ethel and Albert" (NBC-TV). And it's this double-threat labor that makes her career canine-like.

"I never get up later than six in the morning," Peg says. "Wednesdays I'm up at three. That's the day I write the final script. Monday I dream up the idea, Tuesday I rough it out, and Wednesday is writing day."

She also has to rehearse with the rest of the cast, of course. The show is telecast on Saturday. Afterwards she goes home to Stamford, Conn., to spend a restful Sunday with her family. During the week, she lives in mid-Manhattan.

"I just can't work in Stamford," she says. "My daughter is 2½ and I can't resist her. She'll say, 'Mommy, build me a tower before you work.' I start by building a tower and before I know it, the day is gone."

So she lives in Manhattan. And works. And works.

"I haven't seen a movie in a year and a half," she says. "I used to read a book a day—haven't read one in ages. I'm always tired."

When "Ethel and Albert" goes off for the summer, Peg Lynch is going to keep working. She wants to get ahead for next season, so she can take it easier. And maybe build a tower or two.

Edith Barstow is the choreographer on the Dave Garroway Show (NBS-TV), and she held down the same pirouette on the original "Garroway-at-Large." That one, you'll remember, came from Chicago, and Edith used to work often in the home of her assistant, Matty Evans, who lives in a tough neighborhood.

"I could never remember the address," she says. "All I knew was that the house was 14 saloons from the bus stop."

Five Are Sentenced

New York, April 27 (AP)—Five former plainclothes policemen and 14 bookmakers have been sentenced in the windup of a gambling and police corruption probe on Staten Island. A 30-month investigation lies behind the sentencing on charges of conspiracy to violate gambling laws. Among those sentenced yesterday were John and Alexander Dalessio—two of the three notorious "Dee brothers" of Staten Island—and retired police inspector Valentine W. Corell. John Dalessio, 41, drew a one-year term in a penitentiary, and his brother Alexander, 39, a nine-month term. State Supreme Court Justice Felix C. Benvenga, who imposed all the sentences, gave Corell a suspended sentence of one year—free from probation. Corell, 63, was the highest ranking police official on Staten Island (Richmond county) at the time of the gambling-corruption conspiracy.

First monument to the veterans of the Confederacy was erected at Montgomery, Ala., in April, 1868.

T.V. — STAGE — RADIO — RECORDS — PEOPLE

By DICK KLEINER

A survey of 1568 radio and 273 TV stations, made for Sponsor magazine, shows interesting trends in programming. But perhaps the most stimulating set of statistics is this comparison:

61 per cent of the stations reported that they programmed classical or pop concert music. But 65 per cent programmed hillbilly, Western, polka or other folk music.

So classical music plays second violin to hillbilly. What serious music obviously needs is some new tunes—like a Symphony in C-minor for Squeezebox and Banjo.

Shame on you, Josephine Hull. Hiding things, and at your age, too.

The horrible details of Mrs. Hull's deep, dark secret come via Charlotte Van Lein, a tall, beautiful red-head who appears with Mrs. Hull in "Solid Gold Cadillac." Van is a self-confessed New York Giant fan, which is her privilege. She thought that Mrs. Hull was a baseball neutral. But truth will out. One fateful evening, Van and Mrs. Hull were standing in the wings, waiting to go on, when this dialog occurred:

Miss Van Lein: "You don't like baseball, do you?"

Mrs. Hull (looking around for eavesdroppers): "Ssssh! I really do but, you see, my maid, Selina, is a Dodger fan. I love the Giants. But I don't want to hurt Selina's feelings, so I make believe I don't care."

"I'm not interesting," says Peg Lynch. "I just work like a dog."

She may work like a dog, but she definitely is interesting. In fact, her very doggishness is, in itself, interesting. Miss Lynch, as you know, is the author and co-star, with Alan Bunce, of the delightful "Ethel and Albert" (NBC-TV). And it's this double-threat labor that makes her career canine-like.

"I never get up later than six in the morning," Peg says. "Wednesdays I'm up at three. That's the day I write the final script. Monday I dream up the idea, Tuesday I rough it out, and Wednesday is writing day."

She also has to rehearse with the rest of the cast, of course. The show is telecast on Saturday. Afterwards she goes home to Stamford, Conn., to spend a restful Sunday with her family. During the week, she lives in mid-Manhattan.

"I just can't work in Stamford," she says. "My daughter is 2½ and I can't resist her. She'll say, 'Mommy, build me a tower before you work.' I start by building a tower and before I know it, the day is gone."

So she lives in Manhattan. And works. And works.

"I haven't seen a movie in a year and a half," she says. "I used to read a book a day—haven't read one in ages. I'm always tired."

When "Ethel and Albert" goes off for the summer, Peg Lynch is going to keep working. She wants to get ahead for next season, so she can take it easier. And maybe build a tower or two.

Edith Barstow is the choreographer on the Dave Garroway Show (NBS-TV), and she held down the same pirouette on the original "Garroway-at-Large." That one, you'll remember, came from Chicago, and Edith used to work often in the home of her assistant, Matty Evans, who lives in a tough neighborhood.

"I could never remember the address," she says. "All I knew was that the house was 14 saloons from the bus stop."

RCA-Victor's "Country Caravan" is off on a 15-day, 14-city tour. This trek through the countryside in a covered sedan will bring top recording stars, like Hank Snow, Minnie Pearl and Betty Cody, to Mobile, Ala., Little Rock, Ark., Jacksonville, Fla., Baton Rouge, La., Hutchinson, Wichita and Salina, Kans., Jackson, Miss., Omaha, Neb., Asheville and Charlotte, N. C., Roanoke, Va., and Tulsa and Oklahoma City, Okla.

Five Are Sentenced

New York, April 27 (AP)—Five former plainclothes policemen and 14 bookmakers have been sentenced in the windup of a gambling and police corruption probe on Staten Island. A 30-month investigation lies behind the sentencing on charges of conspiracy to violate gambling laws. Among those sentenced yesterday were John and Alexander Dalessio—two of the three notorious "Dee brothers" of Staten Island—and retired police inspector Valentine W. Corell. John Dalessio, 41, drew a one-year term in a penitentiary, and his brother Alexander, 39, a nine-month term. State Supreme Court Justice Felix C. Benvenga, who imposed all the sentences, gave Corell a suspended sentence of one year—free from probation. Corell, 63, was the highest ranking police official on Staten Island (Richmond county) at the time of the gambling-corruption conspiracy.

First monument to the veterans of the Confederacy was erected at Montgomery, Ala., in April, 1868.

C of C Suggests Central List to Handle Inquiries

Each year more than 10,000 inquiries for all types of local and area information are received by the local Chamber of Commerce, according to Albert Kurdt, executive secretary.

Kurdt invited local Chamber members and others to list with the Chamber of Commerce office "all kinds of information" noting that a central listing of such information may be of mutual benefit.

He suggested this information include unusual products for sale, services available, places of interest, specialized professional services, events, attractions, and the like.

Ask Housing Data

Recently an increasing number of inquiries relate to housing accommodations, Kurdt pointed out, giving the specific case of an engineer who has been looking for over a week for a place to live. "They would rent for a two or three year period, but have not been able to find a place to date. It looks as though we are facing a housing problem," he said.

The following excerpts from inquiries received were taken from the Chamber's April file as illustrative of the types of information sought:

"Please send me a list of places of interest to see and visit while in Kingston."

"Please send me any information that you may have concerning employment opportunities in your city and surrounding areas."

"Let me know which bank or banks in Kingston give the highest rate of interest."

"Where can I get buckwheat honey in the comb?"

"When will apple blossoms be open in Ulster county?"

"In the near future I am planning to move my family to the Kingston area . . . Please send information."

Other Typical Questions

"We are anticipating a weekend trip to Kingston. Will you kindly give us the following information: points of interest, ferry schedule, Saturday store hours, and recommended hotels?"

"Since we may move to Kingston in the near future . . . would appreciate any literature."

"A client of ours made a will . . . would like to know if there is an institution in Kingston which would answer this description."

"My friends and I have decided to spend our vacation on a dude ranch . . . in your part of the country . . . send information."

"Will you kindly tell us when Ringling Bros. Barnum and Bailey Circus is planning to visit your city?"

The dead, all Germans, on the Rome-to-Copenhagen express, were two train conductors and a woman passenger who had just entered the dining car when the collision occurred. No one aboard the local train was reported hurt.

Tiny Sun-Powered Battery Developed

New York, April 26 (AP)—A battery made of silicon and powered by the sun has been developed by Bell Telephone laboratories.

The battery already can create enough electric power to accomplish a number of things, such as carry a voice a short distance over a telephone wire, broadcast from a miniature portable radio transmitter and run a toy ferris wheel.

Company officials say that, with further development, the sunshine batteries promise to supply all the power for long rural telephone lines. They would supply power even on cloudy days, and charge up storage units to permit night operation.

Size of Man's Hand

The invention was demonstrated to newsmen at the Bell Telephone laboratories at Murray Hill, N. J., and made public last night. The battery shown was the size of a man's hand.

The battery is made of razor-thin strips of silicon, the material of which sand is made. As sunlight strikes the silicon, a flow of electric current is created in atoms in the strips.

The batteries for rural telephone lines would be a foot square. If they could be made big enough and cheaply enough, they possibly could provide current for lights, television sets and refrigerators in homes.

Inventors of the new battery are G. L. Pearson, physicist; G. S. Fuller, chemist, and D. M. Chapin, electrical engineer.

The invention is different from the atomic battery, recently announced. That battery converts rays from radioactive atoms into electric current.

"THE INVESTMENT WITH NO REGRETS"
You should have straight forward answers to the following questions from ANY HEATING SALESMAN before you make an expensive lifetime investment in automatic heating . . .

IS IT COMFORTABLE?
Oil heat is comfortable to live with, easy to pay for, no fears for family safety. Thermostatically controlled, your heating plant is entirely automatic. It is both clean and safe.

IS IT ECONOMICAL?
Compare oil heat with other fuels on any basis. Gas fuel costs, as an instance, are 20% to 25% higher than oil in any similar installation. Free competitive enterprise among your choice of friendly dealers keeps future prices on a realistic basis. No building alteration costs.

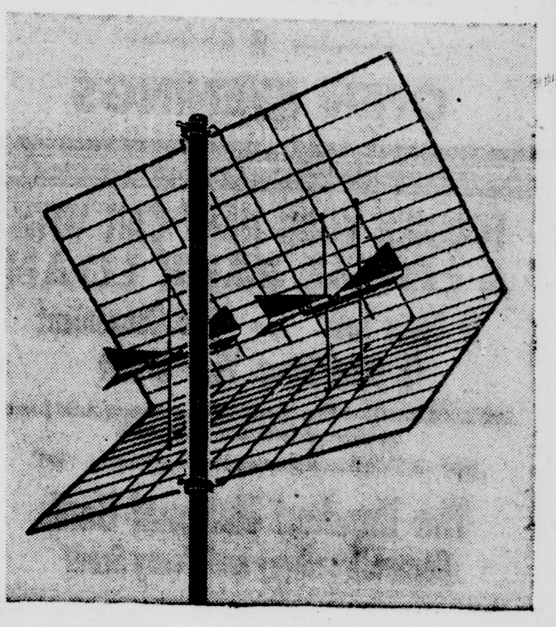

IS IT DEPENDABLE?
Oil heat does not depend upon the perfect functioning of thousands of miles of vulnerable pipelines — you have tomorrow's heat stored on your own premises today. You never have to worry about unusual demands upon a shared fuel supply — most of whose customers are closer to the source than you are.

the MOST SENSITIVE TV ANTENNA EVER MADE for UHF
CHANNEL MASTER'S TWIN CORNER REFLECTOR

■ far better picture quality . . .
■ at far greater distances . . .
■ on all UHF channels — present and future!

At last! Here is an amazing new TV antenna — specifically made to give you best reception in UHF's "fringe areas!"

The Twin Corner Reflector actually combines the performance of 2 separate antennas; and it gives you the clearest, brightest TV pictures your set can deliver — wherever you live.

What's more, Channel Master's Twin Corner Reflector protects you against the "TWIN TERRORS" of UHF reception:

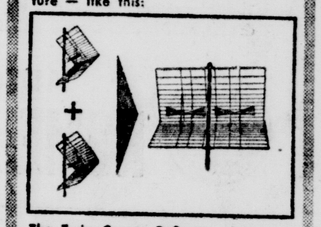

- Antenna vibration (which causes picture flicker), and
- Dirt or rainwater on the antenna terminals (which dims or shorts out the picture).

Ultra-rigid construction and "free-space" terminals on this unique antenna eliminate both of these problems, and you're always sure of consistently fine pictures — regardless of Ol' Man Weather.

IF YOU NOW HAVE VHF . . .
. . . the Twin Corner Reflector can easily be added to your present installation — on the same mast — to give you complete VHF-UHF coverage at low cost. And these antennas may be combined so that only one transmission line runs to the TV set.

Call today and get ready for complete UHF TV reception.

2 antennas in 1
YES! You actually get the performance of 2 antennas!
First antenna of its kind! The Twin Corner Reflector is really 2 separate antennas. But instead of stacking them one above the other in the usual way, Channel Master's engineers combined them side-by-side into one simple structure — like this:

The Twin Corner Reflector gives you:
. . . the economy of one antenna
. . . the convenience and easy installation of one antenna
. . . BUT — the amazing performance of two combined antennas!

Designed in the nation's most modern Antenna Research Laboratory.

YOU CAN'T BEAT
OIL HEAT
"THE INVESTMENT WITH NO REGRETS"

You should have straight forward answers to the following questions from ANY HEATING SALESMAN before you make an expensive lifetime investment in automatic heating . . .

IS IT COMFORTABLE?
Oil heat is comfortable to live with, easy to pay for, no fears for family safety. Thermostatically controlled, your heating plant is entirely automatic. It is both clean and safe.

IS IT ECONOMICAL?
Compare oil heat with other fuels on any basis. Gas fuel costs, as an instance, are 20% to 25% higher than oil in any similar installation. Free competitive enterprise among your choice of friendly dealers keeps future prices on a realistic basis. No building alteration costs.

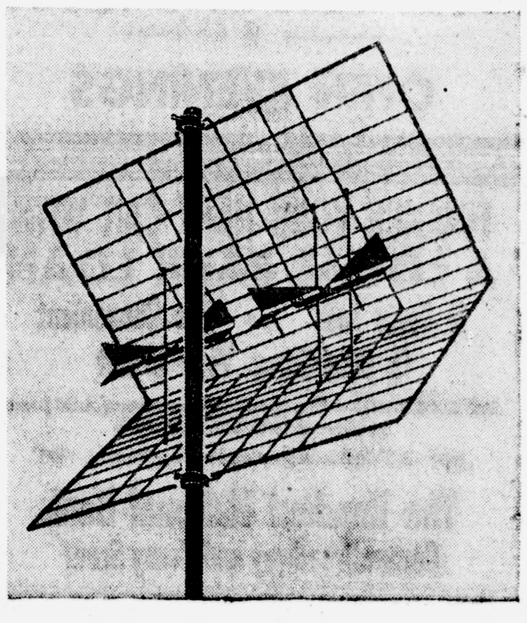

IS IT DEPENDABLE?
Oil heat does not depend upon the perfect functioning of thousands of miles of vulnerable pipelines — you have tomorrow's heat stored on your own premises today. You never have to worry about unusual demands upon a shared fuel supply — most of whose customers are closer to the source than you are.

the MOST SENSITIVE

CHANNEL MASTER'S TWIN
CORNER REFLECTOR

■ far better picture quality . . .
■ at far greater distances . . .
■ on all UHF channels — present and future!

At last! Here is an amazing new TV antenna — specifically made to give you best reception in UHF's "fringe areas!"

The Twin Corner Reflector actually combines the performance of 2 separate antennas; and it gives you the clearest, brightest TV pictures your set can deliver — wherever you live.

What's more, Channel Master's Twin Corner Reflector protects you against the "TWIN TERRORS" of UHF reception:

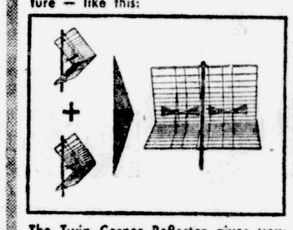

- Antenna vibration (which causes picture flicker), and
- Dirt or rainwater on the antenna terminals (which dims or shorts out the picture).

Ultra-rigid construction and "free-space" terminals on this unique antenna eliminate both of these problems, and you're always sure of consistently fine pictures — regardless of Ol' Man Weather.

IF YOU NOW HAVE VHF . . .
. . . the Twin Corner Reflector can easily be added to your present installation — on the same mast — to give you complete VHF-UHF coverage at low cost. And these antennas may be combined so that only one transmission line runs to the TV set.

Call today and get ready for complete UHF TV reception.

2 antennas in 1
YES! You actually get the performance of 2 antennas!
First antenna of its kind! The Twin Corner Reflector is really 2 separate antennas. But instead of stacking them one above the other in the usual way, Channel Master's engineers combined them side-by-side into one simple structure — like this:

The Twin Corner Reflector gives you:
. . . the economy of one antenna
. . . the convenience and easy installation of one antenna
. . . BUT — the amazing performance of two combined antennas!

Designed in the nation's most modern Antenna Research Laboratory.

CANCER is the cruelest enemy of all. No other disease brings so much suffering to Americans of all ages.

YET—though 23 million living Americans will die of cancer, at present rates—there is reason for hope. Thousands are being cured, who once would have been hopeless cases. Nixon, Dewey, Mrs. Hobby Will Be GOP Speakers

New York, April 26 (AP)—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, Vice President Nixon and Mrs. Oveta Culp Hobby, secretary of health, education and welfare, have been announced as speakers for the sixth annual dinner of the Republican State Committee May 26.

Additional plans for the dinner, to be held at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, were announced last night by Rep. Dean P. Taylor, GOP state chairman.

Party leaders have said 2,500 guests are expected at the $100-a-plate fund-raising dinner.

The 300-member Republican state committee will meet on the afternoon of May 26 to elect a successor to J. Russel Sprague of Nassau county who resigned as Republican national committeeman last November. Also on the agenda for the meeting is discussion of plans for this year's election campaigns.

Ceremonies marking the centennial of the Republican party will be held at both the dinner and state committee meeting.

Think It Through

By EDWARD F. HUTTON

OUR FREEDOM IS AT STAKE!

American politics is slowly moving toward a radical versus a conservative party. Each of the two parties has a split personality. There are radicals and conservatives in both. In effect we have four parties. In Congress, two coalitions of Right and Left oppose each other.

Mr. Hutton

The Democratic party retains the name, but has abandoned its historic principles. It is a captive of the New-Fair Deal. But old line Democrats are unwilling hostages to their top command.

In both parties are men of statesmanship and integrity.

Our country has become industrialized, urbanized, wealthy and internationally powerful in two generations. This state of affairs invites big city political bosses of a radical bent to offer the people a welfare state, which means farewell to the Constitution and welcome to European state Socialism. It will put our people in a Government closed shop.

But this great issue is not presented clearly to the people, due to the split personalities of the parties. Millions of voters feel that they no longer have a party that speaks for them.

That is what I mean by FREEDOM IS AT STAKE. How can today's great issue be settled without a party re-alignment? How do we preserve freedom against the ever-growing power of the State?

What say, neighbor?

Opening lead—♥ 7

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

When it is up to you to make the opening lead against a slam contract, you probably think very hard about the proper choice. You may decide to try a dangerous lead if there is good reason to believe that this will be more productive than a safe lead. You will not make a dangerous lead out of a clear blue sky, however, when a safe lead is available.

One important thing to remember in a bridge game is that your opponents are not very different from yourself. Your opponents also like safe leads and dislike unsafe leads.

When West led the seven of hearts against South's slam contract in today's hand, South's first reaction was one of disappointment. It was very unlucky for him that West had decided to lead a heart.

With any other lead, South could easily win, draw trumps, cash the ace of spades, and get to the dummy to lead the queen of spades and let it ride. South could afford to let the enemy make the king of spades, thus obtaining all the discards he needs for his losing hearts.

The opening heart lead forced declarer to make an immediate decision about the play of that suit. Should he finesse the queen or put up the ace of hearts?

After some thought, South decided that West was not likely to be making a dangerous lead away from the king of hearts when he had a safe club lead of some kind available to him. If West didn't have the king of hearts, there could be no advantage in finessing the queen.

Acting on this reasoning, declarer won the first trick with dummy's ace of hearts. He cashed the ace of diamonds and the ace of spades and returned to dummy with a trump. His next step was to lead the queen of spades through, discarding a heart when East played low.

West was able to win this trick with the king of spades, but couldn't lead another heart. He hopefully returned a club, but South won with the ace, ruffed a club in dummy, and then discarded his two remaining low hearts on dummy's top spades.

If South had finessed the queen of hearts at the first trick, he would have been defeated. East would have taken the king of hearts and returned the suit giving West an immediate ruff.

130 Special Federal Censuses Last Year

One hundred and thirty special federal censuses were conducted in the United States last year, according to John B. Lovett, supervisor of the New York District Office of the U. S. Bureau of the Census. Altogether, 188 such censuses have been taken in the country since the decennial count in 1950.

The chief reason for these special censuses is to establish new population bases for allotments of tax funds collected by the states and distributed to local communities on a per capita basis. In other instances, special censuses are taken because of municipal annexations or in order to establish official population figures for municipalities which are incorporated from unorganized areas after an official census has been taken. In the field of private business, newspapers, radio stations and trade associations find new population bases useful in setting up revised circulation and advertising rates and quotas, promotional work and related activities.

The special censuses are conducted by the Census Bureau and the resulting figures are certified as official. The cost of the censuses is borne by the individual communities which sponsor them.

Mr. Lovett stated that municipal or town officials may obtain information regarding the costs and procedures of special censuses by addressing their inquiries to the Director of the Census, Washington 25, D. C.

Where Loggers Missed

Madison, Wis. (AP)—The loggers who cut their way across Wisconsin in the early years of the century missed a few big trees. The American Forestry Assn. has recognized a tree near the famed Dells of the Wisconsin river—an old log drive thoroughfare—as the largest jack pine in the world. It's 70 feet tall and 68.8 inches in circumference. Wisconsin also has the largest white pine and the largest Norway (red) pine in the world.

NAVY'S NEW LOOK—The Navy Department in Washington, D. C., disclosed details about two late-model planes. The carrier-based A3D jet bomber, top, is designed to carry the largest atomic weapons. One version of the F7U-3, below, jet fighter will carry guided missiles.

Information, New Photos Are Sought For Esopus Folder

Thomas Bohan, president of the town of Esopus Chamber of Commerce, is completing listings for publication of the 1954 folder which will go out to travel agencies and other vacation and resort distribution centers. Additional information and new photographs are being sought for the new folder.

Members of the Town of Esopus Chamber of Commerce will shortly receive a letter requesting such information. Additional historical information which may tend to make the new folder more informative and more attractive is being sought in addition to new action photographs. These photographs should be of minimum size of five by seven and show interesting scenes in the township.

Now that IBM is to locate in Ulster county and adjacent to the town of Esopus, the Town of Esopus Chamber of Commerce seeks to put before the people the advantages of the town so that it may receive its share of new home owners, Bohan pointed out.

Prompt return of information sought by postcard is requested so that publication of the 1954 folder may be hastened for distribution. The Town of Esopus Chamber of Commerce includes in its membership residents of Port Ewen, Ulster Park, West Park, Esopus, Rifton, St. Remy and Connelly. Replies for listings should be sent to Mrs. Alice Tinnie, Secretary, at Port Ewen.

Did George Washington dance with local belles at Bogardus Tavern on the evening of November 16, 1782?

The late Alphnso T. Clearwater, city historian, writing in 1929, says he did—although in his History of Ulster County published in 1907 he remarks simply that Washington attended a ball in his honor at the tavern "where the ladies were introducted to him."

Marius Schoonmaker, whose classic History of Kingston was published in 1888, maintains silence.

Gloves Were There

A pair of light tan, elbow-length gloves, apparently of calf skin, are on display at the Senate House Museum with the following explanation: "These gloves were worn by a woman who attended the ball that was given in honor of George Washington. She was a cousin of Miss Kate Jensen. Gift received from Miss Minnie Millard." On the back of the glove at the hand is an ink print of a pastoral scene.

A perusal of some dozen volumes about the tall distinguished first president fails to demonstrate that the Father of His Country ever actually participated in a dainty minuet or a graceful quadrille. Further investigation, with more adequate research materials, may shed light.

Local opinion, quizzed at random, is vague—can offer nothing beyond the statements by Schoonmaker and Clearwater.

Attended Dances

There is evidence in Washington biography at the local library that the Pater Patriae attended balls occasionally, two in particular—one on his natal day in 1798, the other on his natal day the following year several months before his death—on both occasions as a spectator. There is evidence also that he found these occasions refreshing.

Washington's visit to Kingston came approximately two weeks before the signing of a preliminary treaty of peace ending the American Revolution. He continued his journey by horseback the following morning, November 17—destination, West Point.

The famous old tavern and hotel, known as the Constitution House by virtue of the fact that the first constitution of the state was signed there September 10, 1777, was torn down about the middle of the last century.

According to an old print, the tavern had two stories and an attic with a high, steep roof, five windows on front and four on the side which is visible. Two chimneys rise from the roof.

His Partners Named

In "Kingston — A Tribute" (1929) Clearwater says the general put up at Bogardus Tavern "that stood where the residence of the late Myron Teller now stands. Accompanied by his staff he dined with Judge Dirck Wynkoop whoose charming elderly spinster daughter, Aunt Peggy, who as a child attended the dinner, was a warm friend of the writer's childhood.

"The people of Kingston, always punctilous in social matters, gave Washington a ball at Bogardus Tavern where the distinguished visitor danced a quadrille, the first two figures with the beautiful Miss Houghtelling, changing partners at the third figure to dance with the equally handsome Sarah Van Gaasbeck, who subsequently became the inamorata of Aaron Burr."

Washington's birthday was observed twice in Alexandria, Va., after he returned to Mount Vernon following the termination of the war.

Diary Entries Cited

According to an entry in his diary under February 12, 1798, he "went with the family to a ball in Alexandria given by the citizens of it and its vicinity in commemoration of the anniversary of my birthday." February 11 had fallen on a Sunday so the celebration was held the next day. February 11 was accepted as date for the celebrations, according to the Bicentennial Commission on the Life and time of George Washington (1932), because of the "hesitance of the people in fully accepting the Gregorian calendar, which had been adopted by most countries over 40 years before."

On February 11, 1799, the year of his death, his birthday was celebrated with day-long ceremonies concluding with a ball and supper in the evening "at Mr. Gadsby's which was much superior to anything of the kind ever known here. The company was numerous and brilliant; and beauty of person and excellency of taste, in the ladies, seemed to vie for a preference. The house was elegantly illuminated; and the ball room was adorned with a transparent likeness of General Washington executed in masterly style." (Federal Gazette, Baltimore, Md., February 15, 1799).

Stayed With Col. Wynkoop

On November 15, 1782, the day preceding his visit to Kingston, Washington spent the night at the home of his companion-in-arms, Col. Cornelius Wynkoop, at his homestead in Stone Ridge. This charming home is still standing.

At Hurley the general was greeted by an enthusiastic crowd and welcomed with a short address by President Ten Eyck. He then proceeded to Kingston.

In this city, still recovering from the disastrous action of the British in 1777 when they practically leveled Kingston with fire, he was met by the trustees of the city and a large body of citizens. Henry J. Sleght, presiding officer, welcomed Washington in a brief address.

"Your polite and friendly reception of me proves your sincerity," the victorious general replied. "While I view with indignation the marks of a wanton and cruel enemy, I perceive with the highest satisfaction that the heavy calamity which befell this flourishing settlement, seems but to have added to the patriotic spirit of its inhabitants; and that a new town is fast rising out of the ashes of the old. That you and your worthy constituents may long enjoy that freedom for which you have so nobly contended is the sincere wish of, Gentlemen, your most obedient, humble servant, George Washington."

Welcomed at Church

The consistory of the Old Dutch Church also united with their fellow citizens in bidding the hero welcome.

Washington replied that he was "happy in receiving this public mark of the esteem of the Minister, Elders and Deacons of the Reformed Protestant Dutch Church in Kingston. Convinced that our religious liberties were as essential as our civil, my endeavors have never been wanting to encourage and promote the one, while I have been contending on the other, and I am highly flattered by finding that my efforts have met the approbation of so respectable a body. In return for your kind concern for my temporal and enternal happiness permit me to assure you that my wishes are reciprocal; and that you may be enabled to hand down your Religion pure and undefiled to a posterity worthy of their ancestors is the prayer of, Gentlemen, your most obedient servant, George Washington."

Schoonmaker writes that the "arrival of the general and his suite was greeted with great rejoicings on the part of the citizens. He put up at the public house of Evert Bogardus, but accompanied by his staff he dined with Judge Dirck Wynkoop in Green street. In the evening there was a gathering of ladies in the Bogardus ballroom which was honored for a short time by the attendance of the general, when the ladies were introduced to him. The next morning at an early hour he left the village and continued his journey."

Had Ale License

Whatever be the truth about Washington—"First in war, first in peace and first in the hearts of his countrymen" — whether he danced with Kingston belles or not, it is surely a fact that in the year 1770 (and we may assume, in the year 1782 also) Evert Bogardus possessed a license to sell ale.

He was licensed in 1770—seven years before the War of Independence — by Justices of the Peace Johannis Sleght and Johannis Snyder, representing his Majesty, King George the Third.

The document indicates that Bogardus and a certain Benjamin Maste came before the justices "and acknowledged themselves to owe to our said sovereign Lord the King . . . the sum of 10 pounds of good and lawful money of the province of New York.

Must Maintain Order

"The condition of this recognizance is such that whereas the above bonded Everet Bogardus is licensed to keep a common inn and ale house for one year to commence from the first day of January, 1770, to the first day of January, 1771, in the house wherein he now dwelleth at Kingston aforesaid if he the said Evert Bogardus shall keep and maintain good order and rule and shall suffer no disorders nor unlawful games, drunkenness or any other disorders to be used in his said house, outhouse, yard, garden or backside thereunto belonging during the said term then this obligation is to be void, otherwise of force."

9 public notice in the Plebeian of May 7, 1811, reported that John Baird had opened a "public house or tavern in the place formerly occupied by Evert Bogardus, deceased, and hopes from his attention to business to merit a share of their patronage."

From the Ulster Daily Gazette of February 8, 1871, Parr Harlow, editor, we read that Bogardus Tavern was also known as the Constitution House.

Inn Torn Down

"Much to the regret of all who possess an antiquarian taste, it was torn down some years ago to give place for a far more beautiful and costly building. This hotel was for a long time the property of the Bogardus family and at the time of which we now speak was kept by Evert Bogardus. Its original sign bore the likeness of some fancied Indian King. A few scions of the red race, who used to come there to buy their whiskey, would often step under this sign and tip their glasses or bottles to the pictured monarch upon it before drinking, in token of their love for their race. When Mr. Bogardus became an ardent Mason he had the Indian King buried under a coat of paint, and enthroned in his place a Master Mason bearing the insignia of the craft. Mr. Bogardus became so warmly enlisted in favor of Masonry that he caused to be built next his hotel a Masonic Lodge Room. It was also constructed with double floors and ceilings, so that no curious eavesdropping listener could hear what was said during the meetings of the secret brotherhood. This was also pulled down by Mr. Baldwin at the time he built the present residence. This was doubtless the first Masonic Hall built in this county."

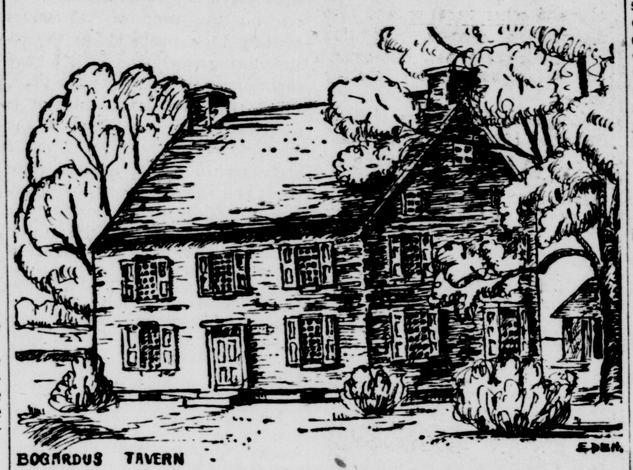

Battle Is Joined

A tavern across the street on whose sign was the picture of a black horse, was the political rendezvous of the Republicans, "while that of Mr. Bogardus was the headquarters of the Federalists.

"In these two hotels, for many successive years, Clintonians and Jayites, Federalists and Republicans, Clintonians and Bucktails, concocted political plots and counterplots. On one occasion the Clintonians and the Jayites were assembled on the same evening, each at their respective headquarters, to have a political rejoicing. The gubernatorial contest between John Jay and George Clinton had just been terminated. In making up the state canvass the vote of Otsego, Clinton and Tioga counties was thrown out on account of certain informalities. The result of this act was to leave Clinton in a minority, for if the votes of those counties had been counted he would have had a majority of the votes cast in the state. Hence, both Clintonians and Jayites met to rejoice; the former because their candidate had received a majority of the votes, and the latter because their candidate had received the certificate of election. The excitement ran high. One party hung from the window of their hotel a red flag—the sign of war. This was answered by the other party by displaying a black flag—the sign of death. What followed then is not fully known to even our oldest inhabitants. They only know that a terrible struggle or fight between the two opposing parties occurred soon after, which was not ended until clubs had been used and blood had flowed freely. Nor is it known which side was victorious. It was probably a drawn battle."

England and France could be connected by a tunnel under the Strait of Dover.

Stalemate Is Reported

New York, April 27 (AP)—The CIO Transport Workers and two bus lines were at a stalemate over a threatened one-day strike Thursday but an arbitrator promised to end the dispute today. Theodore W. Kheel, impartial arbitrator of the city's private bus industry, said he would hand down a "final and binding award . . . before the close of business" today. The union is seeking full pension rights for 145 drivers who were laid off, then rehired, when the company abandoned two-man crews on buses in 1946. The companies contend the drivers should get pension credit only since that time, since they got severance pay when discharged in 1946. Kheel has recommended the drivers be given pension credit for all time with the companies, but that severance pay they received should be deducted.

INTERFERING WIVES

A reader writes me: "I would very much like to have your opinion on the propriety of wives visiting their husbands at the office during working hours. I have maintained that it is not the place for a wife; my friend says it is quite all right especially if the husband is an executive. I am a secretary in a rather large company and this has been one of my pet peeves. I would like to hear what you have to say about this."

Answer: The wife who makes it a habit to run in to see her husband at the office where he is employed is actually quite a handicap to her husband's office rating. If he has an office to himself then the question is one for him to answer.

Unhappy Announcement

Dear Mrs. Post: My daughter was to have been married in two weeks, wedding invitations were sent out and all preparations made. Two days ago she and her fiance had a terrible quarrel and the wedding has been canceled permanently. This is a very embarrassing position to be put into and I would like to know what to do about notifying the guests that there will be no wedding.

Answer: Send the following notice to the whole wedding list:

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Smith regret to inform you that the marriage of their daughter Mary Ellen to Mr. Arthur Judson
will not take place

When Wrong Is Accepted as Right

Dear Mrs. Post: How should I write to a divorced friend who has taken back her maiden name? I've been told she is calling herself what she did prior to her marriage, using the title Miss. Isn't it supposed to be incorrect to do this?

Answer: Socially, yes—but you can't do other than address her as "Miss" if this is the name by which she has re-established herself.

Are you puzzled about writing "thank you" notes or a note of condolence? Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail, but her booklet No. 502 includes model notes and describes correct stationery for all occasions.

Womens Clubs May Re-enter Contest

State Fairgrounds, Syracuse, April 27—"Our women's club entered the New York State Fair community service awards competition last year but didn't win a prize. May we re-enter this year?"

The answer to this frequently asked question is a definite "yes," according to Mrs. Edward D. Eddy, chairman of the women's division of the fair.

"However, projects must be current and must show a continuing development of the original program," Mrs. Eddy added. "Because we believe all successful community ventures are bound to develop new phases in a year's time, we are more than glad to welcome re-entry of last year's candidates."

Winners of 1953 awards are also invited to enter new and different projects in this year's competition.

Entry deadline for the third annual community service awards is June 1. Any women's group in New York State which has rendered a significant unpaid service to its community is eligible for an award.

A first prize of $100 and a second prize of $50 goes to winners in each of four divisions, classified according to group membership.

If deficit financing with its attendant inflation is necessary to promote prosperity, then I believe red figures will still emanate from Washington.

Conversely, if a balanced budget and tighter money bring on a recession, any political party following such a course will find the average American voter very impatient with such action.

Our country has enjoyed an extended period of inflationary prosperity. Most people don't care what brought this about. They are satisfied just to enjoy it. And any logical excuse for its end simply will not be tolerated politically.

If I understand rightly what is going on in Washington now, it is this: reduce the inflation by every possible means: (1) cut federal expenditures, (2) lower taxes, (3) set in motion the machinery that will reduce prices.

But suppose this action brings on a recession and its effect becomes self-defeating? In other words, what will be done in Washington if the sound methods of curbing inflation only bring on unemployment, labor troubles, shrinking purchasing power among millions of workers and executives and general uncertainty?

Well, if the voters of America have to choose between an inflationary dollar and prosperity on the one hand and a deflationary dollar and recession on the other, they will choose inflation every time.

The administration in Washington is trying to rid America of some of her inflation. Maybe it won't work. Maybe, too, the voters will lose patience with these efforts. At all events, the stock market now reflects this economic uncertainty. Stock prices blow hot and cold. It is only natural.

So, common stockholders face these prospects:

1) If inflation reduction is successful, corporations should fare better over the long pull. Shareholders, regardless of wide price fluctuations of their stocks, should be well rewarded.

2) If inflation reduction fails, then deficit financing will doubtless ensue, causing the dollar to deteriorate further.

Consequently, today, unless some urgent action is needed to raise dollars, I can see no reason for selling sound common stocks that pay dependable dividends. On the other hand, until the forces of further inflation or prospective deflation resolve themselves, there is no great need to hurry the purchase of good equities.

America is undergoing an economic transition. Its length is unpredictable. No investor should allow his own problems to go unsolved because of these conditions. Stock prices are likely to rise and fall as inflation and deflation threaten.

Is the average investor, then, to remain on the sidelines with idle capital in his hands and wait? No.

There are dozens of sound securities buying 5 to 6 per cent annually that, regardless of economic tides, can and should be purchased by conservative investors.

Next week I shall analyze briefly a sound stock in the light of present conditions. The analysis will set a pattern for any interested reader.

I doubt if stock prices will reasonably stabilized for months to come. The thing for investors who need income to do is to search out values that are reasonably priced and buy them if average yields over a period of 10 or 20 years are satisfactory.

(A) Selling securities to raise cash always involves the reasons for selling. Are debt to be paid? Are more adequate security programs to be set up? Are mortgages to be reduced or homes purchased? Are educational funds to be established? Most security selling should be prompted by sound economic reasons. And generalizing about them gets the average person nowhere.

Do You Remember

By SOPHIE MILLER

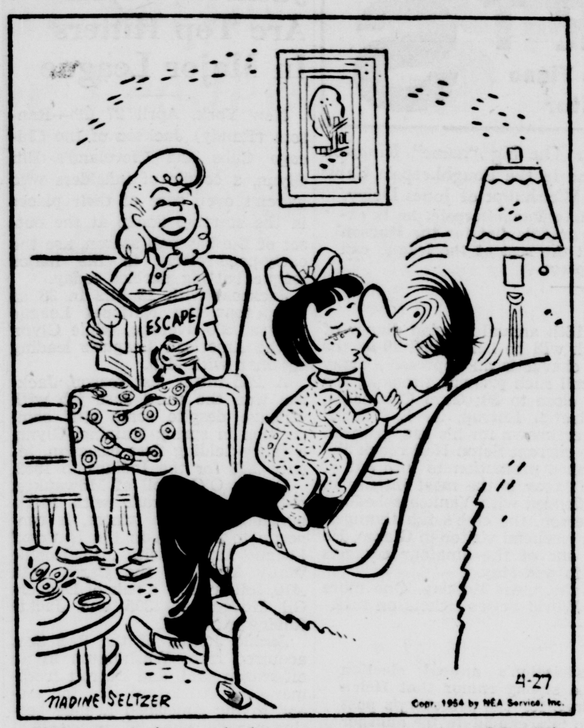

I was asked the other day what became of Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy which used to be manufactured on Ferry street. According to H. L. Van Deusen's records, who used to write the At Century's Turn, he wrote: "The estate of the late Dr. David Kennedy, proprietor and manufacturer of Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy, Calcura Solvent and other patent medicines, October 1, 1918, sold the entire business to the Troy Chemical Co., of Binghamton, who removed the equipment from the old laboratory on Ferry street to Binghamton, where it is planned to carry on same products." Dr. Kennedy died in 1901 and following his death the business had been carried on by his executor and trustees. Dr. Kennedy was born in 1832, was a captain during the Civil War, and surgeon in charge of several hospitals. He served as mayor of Kingston for two successive terms from 1892 to 1895.

With the polio shots in the local news now, let's go back 30 years when Dr. Daniel Connelly was city health officer and his big drive in Kingston to immunize the children of the city against diphtheria. Perhaps some folks remember how the old armory was used for clinic purposes, with the aid of other local physicians and registered nurses he was able to supervise the immunization of several thousand children. In those days, it was necessary to use three injections of serum, each injection a week apart. Children were brought from all parts of Kingston by local volunteers who used their own automobiles to convey the youngsters to and from the clinic.

From time to time I hear the old timers says, "You remember Dr. John T. Buckley, he brought me into this world," or some other doctor's name mentioned now long forgotten. Dr. Buckley was active in politics as well as his profession and was elected supervisor in 1894 on the Republican ticket. For a number of years he also served as an Ulster county coroner and also was the health officer of Kingston for a number of years.

But going back still further before anyone can remember the first physician and surgeon of whom there is any record in Esopus was Dr. Gysbert Van Imbroch. Gov. Stuyvesant induced him to come from New Amsterdam and settle here. As Dr. Van Imbroch was prominent in civil affairs of Esopus his name appears often in the records of his time. He served as shepen, or justice, from 1663 to 1665, was one of the delegates from Esopus to the first representative body in New Netherlands, which met in New Amsterdam in 1664. He married, beforecoming here, Rachel, daughter of Dr. Johannes de la Montagne, a prominent physician of New Amsterdam and also vice-director under Gov. Stuyvesant. Perhaps folks have read about her in previous columns how she was taken captive by the Indians in 1663 at the burning of Wiltwyck, but luckily escaped. She died Oct., 1664, soon after the birth of her last child. Dr. Van Imbroch died a year later, Aug. 29, 1665. They left three children, Lysbert, Johannes and Gysbert, for whom guardians were appointed. He left a good medical library, it is said, as each book was recorded by title. I wonder where these books are now. Could it be that not one remains?

First Intersectional Series Tests Unusual Major Leaders

By JACK HAND
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Ransom Jackson hits like the late shoeless Joe Jackson. The New York Giants win three straight shutouts. Cleveland benches a .419 hitting first baseman. The New York Yankees bat a sour .220 while the Chicago Cubs slug at .326. Rookies Wally Moon of the St. Louis Cards and Bill Tuttle of Detroit ride in the .400 plus stratosphere.

Now comes the showdown, the majors first shakedown cruise of the season with the first intersectional tests.

The Chicago White Sox invade the east in first place, winning seven of their last eight and ready to take advantage of the Yankees' spotty spring form.

Paul Richards, who has contended all along "the Yanks can be beaten" lists a former Yankee, Don Johnson, to open in Yankee Stadium today. With Nellie Fox and Johnny Groth among the top 10 hitters, Ferris Fain tops in runs batted in and Graddy Hatton relieving Minnie Minoso of his third base chores, the Sox look like formidable challengers.

Detroit Surprises

Detroit, a real surprise in the first two weeks, opens its first trip tonight in Philadelphia. Centerfielder Tuttle is off to a fine start but it's too early to buy him as a "phenom." The A's also have shown a fine new second baseman in Spook Jacobs, batting .357.

The east will watch with interest Cleveland's switch of Al Rosen to first to make room for rookie Rudy Regalado at third. The move benches Bill Glynn, a .419 hitter. The Indians open in Boston today against the Red Sox, who have been hurt badly by the injury to Mel Parnell, following Ted Williams' broken collarbone.

Baltimore, a "western" team, opens its tour by coming "east" to Washington tonight. After getting six complete games from the pitching staff in the first eight starts, the Orioles ran into trouble at Chicago over the weekend. To get them back on the right path, the Orioles plan on starting Bullet Bob Turley.

Brooklyn goes west, opening tonight at St. Louis, with a half game lead and a reversible lineup. New manager Walt Alston shook up the Dodgers for the second game in Pittsburgh Sunday but probably will go back to normal against the Cards' Gerry Staley.

New Start for Gomez..

Ruben Gomez, knocked out in his first two starts, will try to extend the New York Giants' string of shutouts to four at Milwaukee against Bob Buhl. Charlie Grimm still is juggling his lineup because of the injury to Bobby Thomson and the illness of Bill Bruton.

The Phillies, scoreless since last Wednesday, open at Chicago where Jackson is hitting .500, Dee Fondy .357, Gene Baker and Hank Sauer, each .353. After the three shutouts in New York, nobody says much about the Phil batting averages.

Although Pittsburgh still is in the cellar, the new Pirates continue to surprise everybody. They go into Cincinnati for a night game with Max Surkont ready to oppose rookie Corky Valentine. The Jim Greengrass-Gus Bell combination, plus the .364 bat of Johnny Temple, have kept Cincinnati near the top for the first two weeks.

Holyoke, Mass., April 27 (AP)—Police had to rescue a New York fighter from an angry mob that swarmed into the Valley Arena ring last night.

About 15 ringsiders attacked Howard Saligny, 158, after he landed several low blows against Gerry Tessier, 163, of Springfield, Mass.

Before a dozen police were able to restore order Saligny had been battered and knocked down in his corner by spectators. According to police reports Saligny had felled Tessier with two painful low blows in the first round.

Tessier won the scheduled six-rounder on a disqualification.

Ball Players Need Help in Public Relations

By HARRY GRAYSON
(NEA Sports Editor)

Practically all of the major league club owners have for some years required a vastly more realistic outlook on public relations.

Civic organizations, local groups and fan clubs, which make up the backbone of ball park cash customers, are treated as sources of income when it comes to greeting up a player or so to appear at a meeting, luncheon or dinner and juice everybody up for the home team.

There was a little squib out of Baltimore, the shining new home of the Orioles. The noble athletes now of the Chesapeake City agreed that a $50 fee should be charged for each television, radio or guest appearance.

In view of the fact that the Orioles are doing nothing more or less than the other 15 clubs in major league baseball, this stick of type might have gone unpassed. That is until our temper quickly reached the heat of the cigar gracing the room with its fragrance.

To say that this $50 charge by the Orioles is an outrage is seriously underestimating the whole thing. Here is a group of 25 or so, all blokes whose living depends on people paying their way into a ball yard.

They Were the Browns

In St. Louis, their last port of call, nobody came to see them, mainy on account of the fact that the Orioles, then the Browns, played baseball along the general lies of the Perth Amboy firemen. The present Orioles would have deeply appreciated an invitation for a free meal in St. Louis, just for the thrill of seeing some people for a change, if nothing else.

So the St. Louis ivory was transplanted to Baltimore, where major league-hungry citizens put on a parade for the poor slaves and money through the wickets-cash to pay Orioles salaries.

These good people would like to meet these players—have, say, a Bob Tyrley show up at the Kiwanis Club luncheon one day. Now these athletics, most of whom are questionable in talent and worth even less as a speakers, tell the patrons paying for their bread and butter that they would be pleased to come—at $50 a rattle.

The reaction to this will, after a time, become very plain. Organizations will stop paying $50 fees and more than likely forget about the Orioles as a stick-with-them community project and stay away in large numbers once the club starts to fade, as one can bet it will.

Baseball needs promotion so badly it is screaming for it. But those at its head take the game even farther away from those who pay the freight. They stifle the yells with $50 and higher fees.

This despite the fact that the best way to hop up trade, as any salesman will tell you, is to go out and see the customers and give them a selling pitch.

Harvey Penick, University of Texas golf coach, has guided the Longhorns' links fortunes for 22 years. During this period his golfers have won the Southwest Conference team title 19 times.

If Larry's employers transfer him to Poughkeepsie, he is expected to replace Fran Hauver in the middle slot for the Hudson Valley League tenpin champions. And the rest of the league can settle down to a long run for second place.

• Flotsam and Jetsam:

A nostalgic note in the mails: The 16th annual reunion dinner of the Basketball Old Timers of New York will be held April 29 at the Brooklyn Elks Club. The committee in charge is an impressive array of old time basketball fans and will recall such pre-war titans as Joe Brennan, Frank Bruggy, who must be close to 80; Gaza Chizmadia, John "Red" Conaty, Rody Cooney, Stretch Entrup, A. B. "Turk" Karam, Tom Davitt's friend who is better known for his baseball promotions in Kingston; Honey Russell, the current Seton Hall coach and fightin' Willie Scrill among others. Yankee promotion to lure out of town customers to Yankee Stadium this year is the most intense in history. Martin and Other 'Coddled' Athletes Heading Overseas

Ft. Ord, Calif., April 27 (AP)—Army Pvt. Billy Martin, seeking a hardship discharge so the New York Yankees can fatten his assertedly depleated bank account, is encountering opposition from his sports loving commanding general.

Maj. Gen. Robert McClure told a news conference yesterday he is recommending that the star second baseman's discharge request be denied.

That isn't all. McClure said Martin's name—along with those of many other trainees—is being forwarded to Washington Saturday for reassignment, possibly overseas.

McClure, an avowed sports fan, indicated he doesn't feel Martin is a hardship case. Said McClure:

"The draft board investigated the situation before they redrafted him. Besides, Martin came to camp driving a baby blue Cadillac. Anyone with a car like that can't be broke."

Martin's Story

But Martin, who got out of the army after five months' service in 1952 on similar grounds, told a different story. The 1953 World Series star said money earned in past years was "not so much and it's all gone."

As a private, he gets $80 a month and $135 a month for dependents. But he said in addition to supporting his mother, sister and stepfather he must—by court order—pay $150 a month to his estranged wife for herself and their infant daughter.

McClure said the final decision on Martin's application will be made by the 6th Army Headquarters in San Francisco.

He told of Martin's case while defending himself against charges he and Ft. Ord have overempasized athletics and "coddled athletes:"

McClure termed the charges "exaggerated" but proudly conceded he has retained athletes after they finished basic training. He justified himself on grounds the Marines do the same thing.

Jackson, Glynn Are Top Hitters In Major League

New York, April 27 (AP)—Ransom (Randy) Jackson of the Chicage Cubs and Cleveland's Bill Glynn, a couple of infielders who weren't even sure of their places in the starting lineup at the outset of the baseball season, are the early-pace-setters in the major league batting derbies today.

Jackson, with 19 hits in 38 at bats, tops the National League with a .500 average, while Glynn is the American League's leading batsman with .419.

A .285 hitter last season, Jackson won the third base job with Chicago despite some stiff competition in spring training. Glynn, a fancy-fielding first baseman, hit only .243 for the Indians in 1953.

Danny O'Connell of Milwaukee, obtained in a trade with Pittsburgh during the winter, is runnerup to Jackson in the National League listings with .415. Rookie Wally Moon of the Cards with .410, followed by a pair of Dodgers Gil Hodges at .395 and Jackie Robinson at .394.

Jackie Jensen of the Red Sox, acquired from Washington in an off-season deal, and Detroit freshman Bill Tuttle are tied for second in the American League batting parade with .405 apiece. Boston's Billy Goodman ranks fourth at .372 and Vern Stephens of Baltimore is next at .366.

Stretch Run Wins For Meadow Gene

Yonkers, April 27 (AP)—Meadow Gene rushed up the stretch with driver Harry Harvey to pass Power Chief and win last night's feature at Yonkers Roceway. The $3,000 Sleepy Hollow Pace, in 2:06.1.

Meadow Gene's margin was a half length over Power Chief. Third, four and a quarter lengths in the rear, was Bertram Hanover.

Meadow Gene paid $4.90, $2.90, $2.60.

Meadow Gene, starting from the fifth pole, was fourth at three quarters, but roared up to one length behind Power Chief entering the stretch. Meadow Gene, owned by the Peter Pan stables of Washington, Penn., caught and passed Power Chief about twenty yards from the wire.

Trabert Eyes Pro Career

New York, April 27 (AP) — United States Davis Cup ace Tony Trabert admitted today that his biggest ambition is to turn professional and cash in on his talents.

"There's no use trying to kid anyone," Tony said. "I want to turn professional and get some money before it's too late. That's why I'm leaving school shortly. You can't concentrate on two things at once, and from now on, it will be strictly tennis with me."

The 23-year-old University of Cincinnati student was married several months ago and that probably changed his outlook on things considerably. Now he has responsibilities.

Tony, on whom the burden of wresting the Davis Cup back from Australia rests, will leave for a tour of Europe Sunday. He'll sharpen his strokes in the hope of winning both the Wimbledon and United States titles.

Ralph H. Young, Michigan State's Director of Athletics, led the East in football scoring in 1912. He played fullback for Washington and Jefferson.

First Intersectional Series Tests Unusual Major Leaders

By JACK HAND
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Blame it on the weather, the H-bomb or the McCarthy hearings, this looks like one screwball season.

Ransom Jackson hits like the late shoeless Joe Jackson. The New York Giants win three straight shutouts. Cleveland benches a .419 hitting first baseman. The New York Yankees bat a sour .220 while the Chicago Cubs slug at .326. Rookies Wally Moon of the St. Louis Cards and Bill Tuttle of Detroit ride in the .400 plus stratosphere.

Now comes the showdown, the majors first shakedown cruise of the season with the first intersectional tests.

The Chicago White Sox invade the east in first place, winning seven of their last eight and ready to take advantage of the Yankees' spotty spring form.

Paul Richards, who has contended all along "the Yanks can be beaten" lists a former Yankee, Don Johnson, to open in Yankee Stadium today. With Nellie Fox and Johnny Groth among the top 10 hitters, Ferris Fain tops in runs batted in and Graddy Hatton relieving Minnie Minoso of his third base chores, the Sox look like formidable challengers.

Detroit Surprises

Detroit, a real surprise in the first two weeks, opens its first trip tonight in Philadelphia. Centerfielder Tuttle is off to a fine start but it's too early to buy him as a "phenom." The A's also have shown a fine new second baseman in Spook Jacobs, batting .357.

The east will watch with interest Cleveland's switch of Al Rosen to first to make room for rookie Rudy Regalado at third. The move benches Bill Glynn, a .419 hitter. The Indians open in Boston today against the Red Sox, who have been hurt badly by the injury to Mel Parnell, following Ted Williams' broken collarbone.

Baltimore, a "western" team, opens its tour by coming "east" to Washington tonight. After getting six complete games from the pitching staff in the first eight starts, the Orioles ran into trouble at Chicago over the weekend. To get them back on the right path, the Orioles plan on starting Bullet Bob Turley.

Brooklyn goes west, opening tonight at St. Louis, with a half game lead and a reversible lineup. New manager Walt Alston shook up the Dodgers for the second game in Pittsburgh Sunday but probably will go back to normal against the Cards' Gerry Staley.

New Start for Gomez..

Ruben Gomez, knocked out in his first two starts, will try to extend the New York Giants' string of shutouts to four at Milwaukee against Bob Buhl. Charlie Grimm still is juggling his lineup because of the injury to Bobby Thomson and the illness of Bill Bruton.

The Phillies, scoreless since last Wednesday, open at Chicago where Jackson is hitting .500, Dee Fondy .357, Gene Baker and Hank Sauer, each .353. After the three shutouts in New York, nobody says much about the Phil batting averages.

Although Pittsburgh still is in the cellar, the new Pirates continue to surprise everybody. They go into Cincinnati for a night game with Max Surkont ready to oppose rookie Corky Valentine. The Jim Greengrass-Gus Bell combination, plus the .364 bat of Johnny Temple, have kept Cincinnati near the top for the first two weeks.

Ball Players Need Help in Public Relations

By HARRY GRAYSON
(NEA Sports Editor)

Practically all of the major league club owners have for some years required a vastly more realistic outlook on public relations.

Civic organizations, local groups and fan clubs, which make up the backbone of ball park cash customers, are treated as sources of income when it comes to greeting up a player or so to appear at a meeting, luncheon or dinner and juice everybody up for the home team.

There was a little squib out of Baltimore, the shining new home of the Orioles. The noble athletes now of the Chesapeake City agreed that a $50 fee should be charged for each television, radio or guest appearance.

In view of the fact that the Orioles are doing nothing more or less than the other 15 clubs in major league baseball, this stick of type might have gone unpassed. That is until our temper quickly reached the heat of the cigar gracing the room with its fragrance.

To say that this $50 charge by the Orioles is an outrage is seriously underestimating the whole thing. Here is a group of 25 or so, all blokes whose living depends on people paying their way into a ball yard.

They Were the Browns

In St. Louis, their last port of call, nobody came to see them, mainy on account of the fact that the Orioles, then the Browns, played baseball along the general lies of the Perth Amboy firemen. The present Orioles would have deeply appreciated an invitation for a free meal in St. Louis, just for the thrill of seeing some people for a change, if nothing else.

So the St. Louis ivory was transplanted to Baltimore, where major league-hungry citizens put on a parade for the poor slaves and money through the wickets-cash to pay Orioles salaries.

These good people would like to meet these players—have, say, a Bob Tyrley show up at the Kiwanis Club luncheon one day. Now these athletics, most of whom are questionable in talent and worth even less as a speakers, tell the patrons paying for their bread and butter that they would be pleased to come—at $50 a rattle.

The reaction to this will, after a time, become very plain. Organizations will stop paying $50 fees and more than likely forget about the Orioles as a stick-with-them community project and stay away in large numbers once the club starts to fade, as one can bet it will.

Baseball needs promotion so badly it is screaming for it. But those at its head take the game even farther away from those who pay the freight. They stifle the yells with $50 and higher fees.

This despite the fact that the best way to hop up trade, as any salesman will tell you, is to go out and see the customers and give them a selling pitch.

Martin and Other 'Coddled' Athletes Heading Overseas

Ft. Ord, Calif., April 27 (AP)—Army Pvt. Billy Martin, seeking a hardship discharge so the New York Yankees can fatten his assertedly depleated bank account, is encountering opposition from his sports loving commanding general.

Maj. Gen. Robert McClure told a news conference yesterday he is recommending that the star second baseman's discharge request be denied.

That isn't all. McClure said Martin's name—along with those of many other trainees—is being forwarded to Washington Saturday for reassignment, possibly overseas.

McClure, an avowed sports fan, indicated he doesn't feel Martin is a hardship case. Said McClure:

"The draft board investigated the situation before they redrafted him. Besides, Martin came to camp driving a baby blue Cadillac. Anyone with a car like that can't be broke."

Martin's Story

But Martin, who got out of the army after five months' service in 1952 on similar grounds, told a different story. The 1953 World Series star said money earned in past years was "not so much and it's all gone."

As a private, he gets $80 a month and $135 a month for dependents. But he said in addition to supporting his mother, sister and stepfather he must—by court order—pay $150 a month to his estranged wife for herself and their infant daughter.

McClure said the final decision on Martin's application will be made by the 6th Army Headquarters in San Francisco.

He told of Martin's case while defending himself against charges he and Ft. Ord have overempasized athletics and "coddled athletes:"

McClure termed the charges "exaggerated" but proudly conceded he has retained athletes after they finished basic training. He justified himself on grounds the Marines do the same thing.

Jackson, Glynn Are Top Hitters In Major League

New York, April 27 (AP)—Ransom (Randy) Jackson of the Chicage Cubs and Cleveland's Bill Glynn, a couple of infielders who weren't even sure of their places in the starting lineup at the outset of the baseball season, are the early-pace-setters in the major league batting derbies today.

Jackson, with 19 hits in 38 at bats, tops the National League with a .500 average, while Glynn is the American League's leading batsman with .419.

A .285 hitter last season, Jackson won the third base job with Chicago despite some stiff competition in spring training. Glynn, a fancy-fielding first baseman, hit only .243 for the Indians in 1953.

Danny O'Connell of Milwaukee, obtained in a trade with Pittsburgh during the winter, is runnerup to Jackson in the National League listings with .415. Rookie Wally Moon of the Cards with .410, followed by a pair of Dodgers Gil Hodges at .395 and Jackie Robinson at .394.

Jackie Jensen of the Red Sox, acquired from Washington in an off-season deal, and Detroit freshman Bill Tuttle are tied for second in the American League batting parade with .405 apiece. Boston's Billy Goodman ranks fourth at .372 and Vern Stephens of Baltimore is next at .366.

Stretch Run Wins For Meadow Gene

Yonkers, April 27 (AP)—Meadow Gene rushed up the stretch with driver Harry Harvey to pass Power Chief and win last night's feature at Yonkers Roceway. The $3,000 Sleepy Hollow Pace, in 2:06.1.

Meadow Gene's margin was a half length over Power Chief. Third, four and a quarter lengths in the rear, was Bertram Hanover.

Meadow Gene paid $4.90, $2.90, $2.60.

Meadow Gene, starting from the fifth pole, was fourth at three quarters, but roared up to one length behind Power Chief entering the stretch. Meadow Gene, owned by the Peter Pan stables of Washington, Penn., caught and passed Power Chief about twenty yards from the wire.

Trabert Eyes Pro Career

New York, April 27 (AP) — United States Davis Cup ace Tony Trabert admitted today that his biggest ambition is to turn professional and cash in on his talents.

"There's no use trying to kid anyone," Tony said. "I want to turn professional and get some money before it's too late. That's why I'm leaving school shortly. You can't concentrate on two things at once, and from now on, it will be strictly tennis with me."

The 23-year-old University of Cincinnati student was married several months ago and that probably changed his outlook on things considerably. Now he has responsibilities.

Tony, on whom the burden of wresting the Davis Cup back from Australia rests, will leave for a tour of Europe Sunday. He'll sharpen his strokes in the hope of winning both the Wimbledon and United States titles.

Ralph H. Young, Michigan State's Director of Athletics, led the East in football scoring in 1912. He played fullback for Washington and Jefferson.

Slade Registers Upset Over Hurricane Jackson

New York, April 27 (AP)—The hurricane season is on the wane in the heavyweight ranks.

Hurricane Tommy Jackson, who climbed from prelim boy to No. 3 contender on three sensational fights, is back in the pack, deflated at the hands of clever Jimmy Slade.

Spoiler Slade exposed Jackson's weakness for a well-planned retreat with flashing counter-fire while winning a unanimous 10-round decision last night at Brooklyn's Eastern Parkway.

Judge Bert Grant had it 7-3, Judge Americo Schiavone 6-4 and Referee Barney Felix 5-4-1. The AP card also was solid for Slade 7-3.

All Jackson wanted to talk about in the dressing room was "I want him again. I won't fight nobody else. I want him back. I ain't gonna let him get started next time."

Bout With Norkus

Jackson's management, however, has other plans. He is signed for a May 28 date at Madison Square Garden with Charley Norkus.

Sammy Golden, one of the Hurricane's three managers, thought his weight of 194½ to Slade's 181½ was "a little heavy." His best weight is around 191.

Jackson blamed himself for "taking a lot of rounds to paw through his laziness."

It was Jackson's second defeat in his 19-bout career. He zoomed to the top by knocking out Rex Layne in his first main event, whipping Clarence Henry and then stopping Bucceroni, all in 1954.

Although he is third-ranked among the light heavy contenders, Slade wants to go after Rocky Marciano now. His record for 33 fights since 1949 is 20-9-4.

FYL Registration Ends Thursday At Hasbrouck Park

Fourteen and 15-year-old candidates for the Fraternal Youth League are due to register this evening and Thursday at 6 p. m. at Hasbrouck Park.

Final registration for 13-year-olds is scheduled Wednesday.

As there are now seven teams in the league, 35 boys will be picked in the 13-year bracket. Parents are requested to see that the boys register early so that selections can be made and successful candidates measured for uniform and equipment.

About 30 candidates reported for last night's first registration for 13-year-olds at Hasbrouck Park. President Charles Higgins was in charge and representatives were present from all teams.

Campy Will Play Despite Break In Left Hand

St. Louis, April 27 (AP)—Roy Campanella, who has caught all 11 games for the Brooklyn Dodgers this season with a broken bone in his left hand, plans to stay in the regular lineup despite the spring training injury.

The injury was revealed for the first time yesterday by Dodger vice-president E. J. (Buzzie) Bavasi in New York but both he and Campy minimized the seriousness of the break.

"I don't think it's affecting my hitting," said the stocky catcher, but when I swing it just doesn't feel right. Every time I break my wrist on the swing it hurts. I've got my wrist taped tight to try to stiffen it so it won't twist too much."

While doctors have agreed that no further harm would be done by continued playing with the injury, Bavasi said arrangements have been made for further X-rays to be taken in Cincinnati Thursday.

Campy plans to take his usual place behind the bat when the Dodgers open their first western swing of the season against the St. Louis Cardinals tonight.

He is batting only .163 with one hit in his last 20 times at bat.

Duke University shot-putter Durham Lawshe holds the Atlantic Coast Conference indoor and outdoor records for that event.

My Greatest Shot

By DOUG FORD

The Miami Springs course, where they hold the Miami Open, is familiar to me.

I played the layout many times when stationed there during World War 2.

The tournament itself, however, had been until last December, practically a Sam Snead benefit. Slammin Sam had monopolized the $15,000 event.

When you beat Snead, you remember it—and I'll remember my victory in last winter's Miami Open more than all the rounds I played at Miami Springs and probably every other course I've been on.

A poor low wedge shot might have cost me the tournament.

I had a bad position and it gave me the choice of looking simply to get out of trouble or take a chance and shoot for the works—right at the pin.

The wedge gives you the height to get out of trouble and also accuracy.

I hit the shot well, right for the pin.

It was a good one.

The ball went all the way and dunked into the cup to give me an eagle-3.

HIT OPPENHEIMER — Dr. Edward U. Condon, above, accused in 1948 of being the "weakest link in our atomic security," is reported to have written a letter to Dr. J Robert Oppenheimer accusing him of trying to buy immunity for himself by "turning informer" against a fellow scientist, Dr. Bernard Peters. On July 7, 1949, Oppenheimer had given secret testimony about Peters to the House Un-American Activities committee.

The United States Junior Chamber of Commerce will sponsor a nation-wide junior tennis tournament this summer with the finals to be held at Springfield, Ohio, Aug. 3-7.

HOW TO RELEASE UNWANTED FISH

FIRST, USE CARE IN REMOVING THE HOOK IF THE FISH IS A DESIRABLE SPECIES. IF HOOKED IN MOUTH ONLY IT'S EASY. USE A DISGORGER, NOT FINGERS, IF TEETH ARE DANGEROUS. REMOVING SWALLOWED HOOK MAY KILL FISH SO LEAVE IT IN, FISH ABSORBS IT.

DON'T JUST TOSS A FISH BACK IN. GENTLY HOLD IT UPRIGHT, FACING THE CURRENT OR IN QUIET WATER IF POSSIBLE, UNTIL IT RECOVERS TO SWIM AWAY IN SAFETY.

LACKING GAME FISH, "ROUGH" FISH MAY BE CONSIDERED DESIRABLE BY OFFICIALS. IF NOT, DON'T RELEASE THEM AGAIN.

Puerto Rican to Be Sentenced May 5

New York, April 27 (AP)—A Puerto Rican Nationalist will be sentenced tomorrow on a guilty plea to a charge of threatening the life of President Eisenhower.

The defendant, Jose Rivera Colon, 30, faces up to five years in prison and a $2,000 fine.

He pleaded guilty yesterday before Federal Judge Gregory F. Noonan.

Additional details on Colon's arrest on March 12 were revealed yesterday:

He telephoned FBI agent Neil Heiner from a pay booth and told him he was going to kill the President. Time ran out and the operator asked for a nickel. Heiner volunteered to call Colon back to save him the five cents. Colon gave Heiner the number of the pay station phone—which saved the agent the trouble of tracing the call.

Colon and Heiner were still chatting as FBI agents and police arrived at the phone booth.

Eight Mills Are Idle

Boston, April 27 (AP) — Eight American Woolen Co. mills in New England were inactive for the second straight day today because of a strike of an estimated 3,000 CIO workers who are protesting a management proposal that they take a pay cut of 21½ cents an hour. Both management and the CIO Textile Workers Union say they are willing to resume negotiations but neither side made any move to schedule a meeting.

Child Dies in Fire

New York, April 27 (AP) — A 7-year-old girl burned to death in her Brooklyn home early today. A woman leaped from a fourth-floor window to escape the two-alarm blaze. Eighty occupants of the six-story house at 328 Bushwick avenue, were driven to the street. Lucy Gonzales died in her family's third-floor apartment. Shirley Brand, 27, suffered a possible leg fracture in jumping from the window.

New gasoline development boosts power as much as 15%

Discovery of new additive overcomes lead and carbon deposits—re-powers engines

Whether a car is a current model driven only a few thousand miles or an "old faithful" it can deliver as much as 15% more power.

This statement was made by Shell Oil Company engineers in describing the action of Shell's new gasoline additive, which is blended into Shell Premium Gasoline and sold under the trademark TCP.

They explained that every mile a car travels it builds up lead and carbon deposits in the engine. These deposits are the greatest single cause of power loss in engines today.

Twin Power Robbers

These deposits affect performance two ways, it was said. They build up in the combustion chamber where they glow red hot. This ignites the fuel charge prematurely, before the piston reaches its proper firing position. This is called pre-ignition and causes power to fight itself.

At the same time, these deposits foul the spark plugs creating short circuits. Spark plugs misfire.

Shell engineers report that these twin power robbers, pre-ignition and spark plug misfiring, reduce engine power as much as 15%.

Additive Boosts Power

To correct this waste of power and fuel, Shell research scientists sought a fuel additive that would change the nature of engine deposits. That additive, the company reports, was found and is called TCP. They explain that TCP additive actually fireproofs deposits in combustion chambers to prevent pre-ignition. It renders the spark plug deposits nonconductive and stops short-circuiting and misfiring.

So rapidly does TCP additive work, according to Shell engineers, that engines act as if they had been given a tune-up before the second tankful of gasoline containing TCP additive is consumed.

Shell warns, however, that because deposits constantly accumulate, these benefits can only be maintained by continued use of Shell Premium with TCP.

Shell calls TCP the greatest gasoline development since the discovery of tetraethyl lead, and states it is available in Shell Premium Gasoline at Shell Dealer stations.

Slade Registers Upset Over Hurricane Jackson

New York, April 27 (AP)—The hurricane season is on the wane in the heavyweight ranks.

Hurricane Tommy Jackson, who climbed from prelim boy to No. 3 contender on three sensational fights, is back in the pack, deflated at the hands of clever Jimmy Slade.

Spoiler Slade exposed Jackson's weakness for a well-planned retreat with flashing counter-fire while winning a unanimous 10-round decision last night at Brooklyn's Eastern Parkway.

Judge Bert Grant had it 7-3, Judge Americo Schiavone 6-4 and Referee Barney Felix 5-4-1. The AP card also was solid for Slade 7-3.

All Jackson wanted to talk about in the dressing room was "I want him again. I won't fight nobody else. I want him back. I ain't gonna let him get started next time."

Bout With Norkus

Jackson's management, however, has other plans. He is signed for a May 28 date at Madison Square Garden with Charley Norkus.

Sammy Golden, one of the Hurricane's three managers, thought his weight of 194½ to Slade's 181½ was "a little heavy." His best weight is around 191.

Jackson blamed himself for "taking a lot of rounds to paw through his laziness."

It was Jackson's second defeat in his 19-bout career. He zoomed to the top by knocking out Rex Layne in his first main event, whipping Clarence Henry and then stopping Bucceroni, all in 1954.

Although he is third-ranked among the light heavy contenders, Slade wants to go after Rocky Marciano now. His record for 33 fights since 1949 is 20-9-4.

FYL Registration Ends Thursday At Hasbrouck Park

Fourteen and 15-year-old candidates for the Fraternal Youth League are due to register this evening and Thursday at 6 p. m. at Hasbrouck Park.

Final registration for 13-year-olds is scheduled Wednesday.

As there are now seven teams in the league, 35 boys will be picked in the 13-year bracket. Parents are requested to see that the boys register early so that selections can be made and successful candidates measured for uniform and equipment.

About 30 candidates reported for last night's first registration for 13-year-olds at Hasbrouck Park. President Charles Higgins was in charge and representatives were present from all teams.

Campy Will Play Despite Break In Left Hand

St. Louis, April 27 (AP)—Roy Campanella, who has caught all 11 games for the Brooklyn Dodgers this season with a broken bone in his left hand, plans to stay in the regular lineup despite the spring training injury.

The injury was revealed for the first time yesterday by Dodger vice-president E. J. (Buzzie) Bavasi in New York but both he and Campy minimized the seriousness of the break.

"I don't think it's affecting my hitting," said the stocky catcher, but when I swing it just doesn't feel right. Every time I break my wrist on the swing it hurts. I've got my wrist taped tight to try to stiffen it so it won't twist too much."

While doctors have agreed that no further harm would be done by continued playing with the injury, Bavasi said arrangements have been made for further X-rays to be taken in Cincinnati Thursday.

Campy plans to take his usual place behind the bat when the Dodgers open their first western swing of the season against the St. Louis Cardinals tonight.

He is batting only .163 with one hit in his last 20 times at bat.

Duke University shot-putter Durham Lawshe holds the Atlantic Coast Conference indoor and outdoor records for that event.

My Greatest Shot

By DOUG FORD

The Miami Springs course, where they hold the Miami Open, is familiar to me.

I played the layout many times when stationed there during World War 2.

The tournament itself, however, had been until last December, practically a Sam Snead benefit. Slammin Sam had monopolized the $15,000 event.

When you beat Snead, you remember it—and I'll remember my victory in last winter's Miami Open more than all the rounds I played at Miami Springs and probably every other course I've been on.

The turning point came at the 15th hole. It is a long par 5 and my second shot left the ball under a tree 50 yards from the hole.

A poor low wedge shot might have cost me the tournament.

I had a bad position and it gave me the choice of looking simply to get out of trouble or take a chance and shoot for the works—right at the pin.

The wedge gives you the height to get out of trouble and also accuracy.

I hit the shot well, right for the pin.

It was a good one.

The ball went all the way and dunked into the cup to give me an eagle-3.

HIT OPPENHEIMER — Dr. Edward U. Condon, above, accused in 1948 of being the "weakest link in our atomic security," is reported to have written a letter to Dr. J Robert Oppenheimer accusing him of trying to buy immunity for himself by "turning informer" against a fellow scientist, Dr. Bernard Peters. On July 7, 1949, Oppenheimer had given secret testimony about Peters to the House Un-American Activities committee.

The United States Junior Chamber of Commerce will sponsor a nation-wide junior tennis tournament this summer with the finals to be held at Springfield, Ohio, Aug. 3-7.

HOW TO RELEASE UNWANTED FISH

FIRST, USE CARE IN REMOVING THE HOOK IF THE FISH IS A DESIRABLE SPECIES. IF HOOKED IN MOUTH ONLY IT'S EASY. USE A DISGORGER, NOT FINGERS, IF TEETH ARE DANGEROUS. REMOVING SWALLOWED HOOK MAY KILL FISH SO LEAVE IT IN, FISH ABSORBS IT.

DON'T JUST TOSS A FISH BACK IN. GENTLY HOLD IT UPRIGHT, FACING THE CURRENT OR IN QUIET WATER IF POSSIBLE, UNTIL IT RECOVERS TO SWIM AWAY IN SAFETY.

LACKING GAME FISH, "ROUGH" FISH MAY BE CONSIDERED DESIRABLE BY OFFICIALS. IF NOT, DON'T RELEASE THEM AGAIN.

Puerto Rican to Be Sentenced May 5

New York, April 27 (AP)—A Puerto Rican Nationalist will be sentenced tomorrow on a guilty plea to a charge of threatening the life of President Eisenhower.

The defendant, Jose Rivera Colon, 30, faces up to five years in prison and a $2,000 fine.

He pleaded guilty yesterday before Federal Judge Gregory F. Noonan.

Additional details on Colon's arrest on March 12 were revealed yesterday:

He telephoned FBI agent Neil Heiner from a pay booth and told him he was going to kill the President. Time ran out and the operator asked for a nickel. Heiner volunteered to call Colon back to save him the five cents. Colon gave Heiner the number of the pay station phone—which saved the agent the trouble of tracing the call.

Colon and Heiner were still chatting as FBI agents and police arrived at the phone booth.

Eight Mills Are Idle

Boston, April 27 (AP) — Eight American Woolen Co. mills in New England were inactive for the second straight day today because of a strike of an estimated 3,000 CIO workers who are protesting a management proposal that they take a pay cut of 21½ cents an hour. Both management and the CIO Textile Workers Union say they are willing to resume negotiations but neither side made any move to schedule a meeting.

Child Dies in Fire

New York, April 27 (AP) — A 7-year-old girl burned to death in her Brooklyn home early today. A woman leaped from a fourth-floor window to escape the two-alarm blaze. Eighty occupants of the six-story house at 328 Bushwick avenue, were driven to the street. Lucy Gonzales died in her family's third-floor apartment. Shirley Brand, 27, suffered a possible leg fracture in jumping from the window.

New gasoline development boosts power as much as 15%

Discovery of new additive overcomes lead and carbon deposits—re-powers engines

Whether a car is a current model driven only a few thousand miles or an "old faithful" it can deliver as much as 15% more power.

This statement was made by Shell Oil Company engineers in describing the action of Shell's new gasoline additive, which is blended into Shell Premium Gasoline and sold under the trademark TCP.

They explained that every mile a car travels it builds up lead and carbon deposits in the engine. These deposits are the greatest single cause of power loss in engines today.

Twin Power Robbers

These deposits affect performance two ways, it was said. They build up in the combustion chamber where they glow red hot. This ignites the fuel charge prematurely, before the piston reaches its proper firing position. This is called pre-ignition and causes power to fight itself.

At the same time, these deposits foul the spark plugs creating short circuits. Spark plugs misfire.

Shell engineers report that these twin power robbers, pre-ignition and spark plug misfiring, reduce engine power as much as 15%.

Additive Boosts Power

To correct this waste of power and fuel, Shell research scientists sought a fuel additive that would change the nature of engine deposits. That additive, the company reports, was found and is called TCP. They explain that TCP additive actually fireproofs deposits in combustion chambers to prevent pre-ignition. It renders the spark plug deposits nonconductive and stops short-circuiting and misfiring.

So rapidly does TCP additive work, according to Shell engineers, that engines act as if they had been given a tune-up before the second tankful of gasoline containing TCP additive is consumed.

Shell warns, however, that because deposits constantly accumulate, these benefits can only be maintained by continued use of Shell Premium with TCP.

Shell calls TCP the greatest gasoline development since the discovery of tetraethyl lead, and states it is available in Shell Premium Gasoline at Shell Dealer stations.

THE McCARTHY INVESTIGATING COMMITTEE
Could find nothing "un-American" about this charming 6-room and 1½ bath home. Its excellent condition is proof of its fine record, h.a. oil heat, elec. dishwasher, laundromat, 2-car garage. There is nothing about it that would need the 5th Amendment to protect it against self-incrimination. If you are looking for an excellent buy in best uptown location, this is it for only $13,000.

Army Charges

to answer questions about the alleged "doctoring."

Cohn said the picture was sent to him by Schine, that it was "blown up" and delivered to Jenkins. He insisted he had no knowledge of a third person being cut out; that whoever did it thought only Stevens and Schine were relevant.

Cohn testified that Stevens invited him, McCarthy and Schine in Stevens' office last Nov. 6, but that Schine, then in the army, couldn't go.

Says Regret Expressed

He said Stevens at that time expressed regret, saying a couple of photographers had made requests for a picture of Stevens and Schine.

The original picture included Stevens, Schine, an army colonel identified only as Bradley, and part of another civilian at McGuire Air Force Base, New Jersey.

The 27-year-old Cohn said that in any case Stevens had repeatedly requested that he (Stevens) be photographed with Schine.

"That's the fact and we will prove it," Cohn declared.

Stevens had denied in testimony yesterday that he had ever proposed to have a picture taken alone with Schine. He certainly didn't recall it, he said, but commented that he had been photographed many times with many army men.

It was after this testimony by Stevens that Jenkins introduced the picture in evidence.

Cohn acknowledged that he gave Jenkins the photograph at a meeting the latter part of last week. He also confirmed, under questioning by Jenkins, that he did not mention that the photograph had been altered.

Taken in November

The picture was taken last Nov. 17. Cohn said Stevens walked over to Schine and said: "This is a picture I have wanted to have. Let's take it now."

Stevens has charged that McCarthy and Cohn improperly pressured for favors for Schine. McCarthy has charged army officials used Schine as a "hostage" to try to force him to drop his investigation of subversives in the army.

Cohn, asking to tell his side of case in his own way, told Jenkins that he had given the picture to the counsel as part of "very substantial proof of bad faith" on the part of Stevens in charging Cohn with a threat to "wreck the army" when told Schine faced overseas duty.

"Long after these threats were supposed to have been made, Mr. Stevens was solicitous about Mr. Schine and not only once but twice asked to be photographed with Schine," Cohn testified under oath.

Army Counsel Welch, when charging the photograph was "doctored," said he felt Jenkins had been "imposed upon."

Jenkins indicated in questioning Cohn that he felt he should have been advised that it was an altered picture.

Cohn said he would have been glad—during yesterday's questioning of Stevens—to bring out that the picture was not complete, if he had known it then.

But Cohn said he did not know himself that the picture had been altered.

Anzacs Show . . .

is regarded as crucial to the plan's success because Dulles reportedly does not believe the United States should "go it alone" if other Allies refuse to participate.

In London, the British were reported to have rejected for the present any idea of direct intervention in Indochina. But informants indicated Britain may send more troops to Malaya and perhaps stage a show of naval force off Indochina.

Sen. Smith said he felt certain the Eisenhower administration would not send any U. S. forces to Indochina without first asking congressional approval.

Sen. Smith said the administration is deeply concerned over possible political repercussions in France, should Dien Bien Phu be overrun by the Reds.

Despite this, there appeared to be no concerted administration drive to discount the strategic importance of Indochina to American security. In a speech before the U. S. Chamber of Commerce yesterday, President Eisenhower said this is "a time of great decisions" and he added:

"I think it is no longer necessary to enter into a long argument or exposition to show the importance to the United States of Indochina and of the struggle going on there."

Against this background, highly placed officials said yesterday the Eisenhower administration has not given up the idea of sending American fighting forces to Indochina as a last resort.

Financial and Commercial

New York, April 27 (AP)—Steels and aircrafts fell back today under profit taking, and the stock market as a whole drifted lower.

Aircrafts lost fractions to around 4 points. Other stocks posted price changes of about a point either way with minus signs predominating.

The decline was apparent right at the start of trading, and the market with a few exceptions drifted lower into the early afternoon.

Both the steels and aircrafts have been unusually strong in recent sessions. As a consequence, the profit-taking today was not unexpected.

Schedule for the event is as follows: committee meets at the Glenford School at 12 noon; all entries with their cars will meet at the school at 1 p. m.; a drivers meeting will take place at 1:20 p. m.; inspection of cars by the inspecting committee at 1:30 p. m.; rally begins at 2 p. m. As each car leaves the starting line the navigator will be given a set of instructions and their starting time will be noted. The rally will be approximately three hours in length and there will be check points along route.

The next regular meeting will be held the night of the rally, Sunday, May 2.

It was decided that after the rally the semi-monthly meetings will be held on the first Sunday and the third Wednesday of each month, instead of every other Sunday night as has been the previous custom.

Army Charges

to answer questions about the alleged "doctoring."

Cohn said the picture was sent to him by Schine, that it was "blown up" and delivered to Jenkins. He insisted he had no knowledge of a third person being cut out; that whoever did it thought only Stevens and Schine were relevant.

Cohn testified that Stevens invited him, McCarthy and Schine in Stevens' office last Nov. 6, but that Schine, then in the army, couldn't go.

Says Regret Expressed

He said Stevens at that time expressed regret, saying a couple of photographers had made requests for a picture of Stevens and Schine.

The original picture included Stevens, Schine, an army colonel identified only as Bradley, and part of another civilian at McGuire Air Force Base, New Jersey.

The 27-year-old Cohn said that in any case Stevens had repeatedly requested that he (Stevens) be photographed with Schine.

"That's the fact and we will prove it," Cohn declared.

Stevens had denied in testimony yesterday that he had ever proposed to have a picture taken alone with Schine. He certainly didn't recall it, he said, but commented that he had been photographed many times with many army men.

It was after this testimony by Stevens that Jenkins introduced the picture in evidence.

Cohn acknowledged that he gave Jenkins the photograph at a meeting the latter part of last week. He also confirmed, under questioning by Jenkins, that he did not mention that the photograph had been altered.

Taken in November

The picture was taken last Nov. 17. Cohn said Stevens walked over to Schine and said: "This is a picture I have wanted to have. Let's take it now."

Stevens has charged that McCarthy and Cohn improperly pressured for favors for Schine. McCarthy has charged army officials used Schine as a "hostage" to try to force him to drop his investigation of subversives in the army.

Cohn, asking to tell his side of case in his own way, told Jenkins that he had given the picture to the counsel as part of "very substantial proof of bad faith" on the part of Stevens in charging Cohn with a threat to "wreck the army" when told Schine faced overseas duty.

"Long after these threats were supposed to have been made, Mr. Stevens was solicitous about Mr. Schine and not only once but twice asked to be photographed with Schine," Cohn testified under oath.

Army Counsel Welch, when charging the photograph was "doctored," said he felt Jenkins had been "imposed upon."

Jenkins indicated in questioning Cohn that he felt he should have been advised that it was an altered picture.

Cohn said he would have been glad—during yesterday's questioning of Stevens—to bring out that the picture was not complete, if he had known it then.

But Cohn said he did not know himself that the picture had been altered.

Anzacs Show . . .

is regarded as crucial to the plan's success because Dulles reportedly does not believe the United States should "go it alone" if other Allies refuse to participate.

In London, the British were reported to have rejected for the present any idea of direct intervention in Indochina. But informants indicated Britain may send more troops to Malaya and perhaps stage a show of naval force off Indochina.

Sen. Smith said he felt certain the Eisenhower administration would not send any U. S. forces to Indochina without first asking congressional approval.

Sen. Smith said the administration is deeply concerned over possible political repercussions in France, should Dien Bien Phu be overrun by the Reds.

Despite this, there appeared to be no concerted administration drive to discount the strategic importance of Indochina to American security. In a speech before the U. S. Chamber of Commerce yesterday, President Eisenhower said this is "a time of great decisions" and he added:

"I think it is no longer necessary to enter into a long argument or exposition to show the importance to the United States of Indochina and of the struggle going on there."

Against this background, highly placed officials said yesterday the Eisenhower administration has not given up the idea of sending American fighting forces to Indochina as a last resort.

Financial and Commercial

New York, April 27 (AP)—Steels and aircrafts fell back today under profit taking, and the stock market as a whole drifted lower.

Aircrafts lost fractions to around 4 points. Other stocks posted price changes of about a point either way with minus signs predominating.

The decline was apparent right at the start of trading, and the market with a few exceptions drifted lower into the early afternoon.

Both the steels and aircrafts have been unusually strong in recent sessions. As a consequence, the profit-taking today was not unexpected.

Republicans Are Wary

Trenton, N. J., April 27 (AP)—The Republican majority in the New Jersey Legislature is casting a wary eye today over Democratic Gov. Robert B. Meyner's plea for 83 million dollars in new revenue. The lawmakers received Meyner's supplementary budget recommendations cooly yesterday and the prevailing sentiment among Republicans seemed to be that no precipitate change in party policy was required. However, one ranking Republican, Senate Majority Leader Bruce A. Wallace of Camden county, indicated the Legislature might try to work out a compromise with the governor on how to use a proposed cent-a-gallon increase in gasoline taxes.

Soviets Cancel Concerts

Winnipeg, Man., April 27 (AP)—A spokesman for six Soviet concert artists touring Canada says the group has canceled performances in Quebec because auditorium owners are afraid of Premier Maurice Duplessis. The provincial government chief is an avowed anti-Communist. John Boyd of Toronto, manager of the tour, said the group had planned appearances in Quebec May 3 and 4 "but the music people in that province could not rent an auditorium for us." There was no immediate comment from Duplessis.

Republicans Are Wary

Trenton, N. J., April 27 (AP)—The Republican majority in the New Jersey Legislature is casting a wary eye today over Democratic Gov. Robert B. Meyner's plea for 83 million dollars in new revenue. The lawmakers received Meyner's supplementary budget recommendations cooly yesterday and the prevailing sentiment among Republicans seemed to be that no precipitate change in party policy was required. However, one ranking Republican, Senate Majority Leader Bruce A. Wallace of Camden county, indicated the Legislature might try to work out a compromise with the governor on how to use a proposed cent-a-gallon increase in gasoline taxes.

Jewels Are Stolen

New York, April 27 (AP)—Police reported today that two jewel boxes, containing between $5,000 and $10,000 in gems, were stolen yesterday from the hotel suite of an Illinois woman. The burglary, reported by Mrs. Hope Abelson, of Glencoe, Ill., was staged some time during a period of more than 12 hours in which she was out of her quarters in the Hotel Lombardy, police said. There was no indication of a forced entry.

The boll weevil destroys more than one-tenth of the cotton crop annually, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

Soviets Cancel Concerts

Winnipeg, Man., April 27 (AP)—A spokesman for six Soviet concert artists touring Canada says the group has canceled performances in Quebec because auditorium owners are afraid of Premier Maurice Duplessis. The provincial government chief is an avowed anti-Communist. John Boyd of Toronto, manager of the tour, said the group had planned appearances in Quebec May 3 and 4 "but the music people in that province could not rent an auditorium for us." There was no immediate comment from Duplessis.
